

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Sec. 1686. Certificate—recording. If the auditor approves them, he shall so certify, and the articles with the certificates of approval shall be recorded in the office of the secretary of state as articles of other corporations are, who shall indorse thereon his certificate thereof, as is required in case of other corporations for pecuniary profit. [C. '73, § 1123.]

Sec. 1687. Name. If the auditor finds the name of the company to be so similar to one already appropriated by a corporation of the same character as to be likely to mislead the public or to cause inconvenience, he shall refuse his certificate to its articles on that ground. [C. '73, § 1122.]*

Applicable to life companies. See 1786.

Sec. 1688. Recording with state auditor. The articles when thus certified by the secretary of state as recorded in his office, or

Sec. 1689. Kind of company. Every insurance company organized as provided in this chapter shall, if it be a mutual company, embody the word "mutual" in its title, which must appear upon the first page of every policy and renewal receipt; and every company doing business as a stock company shall, upon the face of its policies, express in some suitable manner that such policies are issued by a stock company. Provided that from and after July 4, 1906, no company shall be organized upon the mutual plan under the provisions of this chapter, for the purpose of transacting the business specified in subdivision one (1) and four (4) of section seventeen hundred and nine (1709) of the supplement to the code. The balance of the capital may consist in the bonds or notes of solvent stockholders. [C. '73, § 1124.]

No one of the notes so received shall be for more than five hundred dollars, and no two thereof for the same risk, or made by the same person or firm, except where the whole amount does not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars; nor shall any note be regarded or represented as assets unless a policy be issued upon the same within thirty days after the organization of the company, taking the same upon a risk for no shorter period than twelve months. Each of said notes shall be payable, in whole or in part, at any time when the directors shall find the same necessary for the payment of losses and such incidental expenses as may be necessary for transacting the business of the company. [Same.]*

Sec. 1693. Certificate as to notes. No note shall be accepted as part of the capital of a stock company nor as a premium note taken for the purpose of organization of a mutual company, unless accompanied by a certificate of the clerk of the district court or other court of record of the county in which the person executing it resides, to the effect that the person making it is in his opinion pecuniarily good and responsible therefor in property not exempt from execution. [Same.]

Sec. 1694. Subscriptions of stock—applications. Having published the notice of incorporation contemplated by chapter one of this title, and filed the publisher's affidavit thereof with the auditor of state, together with the articles of incorporation as required in this chapter, the persons named in such articles as incorporators, or a majority of them, shall be authorized to open books for the subscription of stock to the company, if a stock company, or to take applications and premiums or premium notes for insurance, if a mutual company, to the extent hereinbefore required, at such times and places as to them may seem convenient, and keep them open until the full amount required is subscribed or taken. Within thirty days after the subscription book shall have been filled, if a stock company, or after applications and premiums or premium notes for insurance, if a mutual company, shall have been taken to the extent hereinbefore required, a majority of the subscribers, or policy holders if a mutual company, shall hold a meeting for the election of directors, each share of stock or policy of insurance on separate property, as the case may be, entitling the holder thereof to one vote, and the directors then elected shall continue in office until their successors have been duly chosen and accepted the trust. [C. '73, § 1126.]

Sec. 1696. Annual meetings. The annual meetings for the election of directors shall be held during the month of January, at such time as the by-laws of the company may direct; but if for any cause no election is held, or there is a failure to elect at any annual meeting, then a special meeting for that purpose shall be held on the call of a majority of the directors, or of those persons holding a majority of the stock, or of a majority of policy holders

4. Bonds and mortgages and other interest bearing securities being first liens upon real estate within this state or any other state worth at least double the amount loaned thereon and secured thereby exclusive of improvements, or two and one-half times such amount including the improvements thereon, but no such improvements shall be considered in estimating the value unless the owner shall contract to keep the same insured during the life of the loan, in some reliable fire insurance company or companies authorized to do business in the state, other than the company making the investment, in a sum at least double the excess of the loan above one-half the value of the ground exclusive of the improvements, the insurance to be made payable in case of loss to the company or association investing its funds, as its interest may appear at the time of loss; except that the surplus funds may be invested in stocks other than bank stock or in bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of any solvent dividend paying corporation organized under the laws of any of the states, or the United States, or may be loaned thereon upon pledge thereof, at not exceeding eighty per cent of their current market value but no investment shall be made in the companies own stock. Such permission shall be renewed and recorded annually on the first day of March, a copy of which certified by the auditor, shall be admissible in evidence for or against a company with the same effect as the original. [C. '73, § 1131.]

Sec. 1701. Capital increased. When the directors of a stock company with less than the maximum capital allowed in this chapter desire to increase the amount, they shall, if authorized by the holders of a majority of the stock to do so, file with the auditor of state an amendment of its articles authorizing such increase, not exceeding the maximum authorized capital, and thereupon shall be entitled to have the increased amount of capital fixed by such amendment, and the examination of securities constituting the increased capital stock shall be made in the same manner as provided for the original capital stock. [C. '73, § 1135.]

Sec. 1702. Dividends. The directors or managers of a stock company incorporated under the laws of this state shall make no dividends, except from the profits arising from their business; and in estimating such profits there shall be reserved therefrom a sum equal to forty per cent of the amount received as premiums on unexpired risks and policies, which amount so reserved shall be unearned premiums; and there shall also be reserved all sums due the corporation on bonds and mortgages, bonds, stocks and book account, of which no part of the principal or interest thereon has been paid during the year preceding such estimate of profits, and upon which suit for foreclosure or collection has not been commenced, or which, after judgment has been obtained thereon, shall have remained more than two years unsatisfied, and on which interest has not been paid; and such judgment with the interest due or accrued thereon and remaining unpaid, shall also be reserved. Any dividend made contrary to these provisions shall subject the company making it to forfeiture of its franchise. [C. '73, § 1136.]

4. Such as shall have been purchased at sales upon judgments, decrees or mortgages obtained or made for such debt, or obtained by redemption as junior judgment creditor or mortgagee; but it may convey real estate which shall be found in the course of its business not necessary therefor, and all such last mentioned real estate shall be sold and conveyed within three years after the same has been determined, by the auditor of state, unnecessary, unless the company shall procure a certificate from him that the interest of the company will materially suffer by a forced sale, in which event the sale may be postponed for such period as he may direct in such certificate. [C. '73, § 1137.]

Life companies and associations 1803. Fraternal 1839k.

Sec. 1704. Premium notes in mutual company. All premium notes deposited with any mutual insurance company at the time of its organization, as above provided, shall remain as security for all losses and claims until the accumulation of the profits from investments allowed by this chapter shall equal the amount of cash capital required to be possessed by stock companies organized thereunder, unless the obligation of the maker thereof, under the terms of the contract of insurance in said company, shall have sooner expired. [C. '73, § 1138.]

See 1692-93, 1708-17-26-27. Life companies 1771-72.

Sec. 1705. Policy holders members. The directors of any mutual company shall have the right to determine the amount of the note to be given, in addition to the cash premium, by any person insured therein, and every person effecting such insurance, and his heirs, administrators and assigns continuing to be insured, shall be members of the company during the period of insurance, and bound to pay for losses and necessary expenses accruing to the company in proportion to his or their premium note. [Same.]

Sec. 1706. Settlement of losses. The directors shall as often as necessary, after receiving notice of any loss or damage, determine the sums to be paid by the several members thereof as their respective portions of such loss, assess the same against them, respectively, and notify them thereof in such manner as they shall determine or the by-laws prescribe; but the sum to be paid by each member shall always be in proportion to the original amount of his premium note, and be paid to the officers of the company within thirty days after the giving of said notice. [C. '73, § 1139.]*

See also 1742 and 1744.

Sec. 1707. Failure to pay assessments. If any member shall neglect or refuse to pay the sum assessed upon him as his proportion of any loss, as provided in the preceding section, for thirty days after demand has been made by registered letter or personal notice, the directors may sue and recover the amount due from the member under such assessment. The bringing of such suit or the recovery of judgment thereunder shall not affect the liability of the member under his premium note for other assessments to pay subsequent losses, but no such member shall be held liable in the aggregate by assessments in a sum exceeding the amount of his premium note, and if from an assessment made to pay any particular loss sufficient is not realized therefor, the claimant for the loss shall receive only the proportional amount due under his policy, which the sum realized shall be sufficient to pay. It may be provided by the by-laws of the company that the failure to pay an assessment under the provisions of this section shall operate as a forfeiture of the insurance of the member failing to make such payment. But the premium notes given at the organization of the company, and estimated in determining whether such company is entitled to commence business, shall not be cancelled or released within one year, and until all losses accruing during the continuance of the note are paid. [Same.]

No arbitration shall take place except where the property was situated at the time of loss. Any agreement, stipulation or condition in any policy or contract of insurance by which any insurance company reserves or has the right to rebuild shall be void and of no effect in case of total loss, or where the amount of loss, upon the request of the insurance company, has been submitted to arbitration. Nothing herein shall be construed to change the limitations or restrictions respecting the pleading or proving of any defense by any insurance company to which it is subject by law. The provisions of this section shall apply to all contracts of insurance on real and personal property. [28 G. A., ch. 63, § 1; 28 G. A., ch. 64, § 1; 32 G. A., ch. 75.]*

When the auditor doubts the solvency of any foreign association, and the failure to pay the full limit named in its certificate or policy shall be such evidence of its insolvency as to require the auditor to investigate it, he shall for this or other good cause, at the expense of such association, cause an examination of its books, papers and business to be made, and if upon such examination he finds that the association is not financially sound, or is not paying its policies or certificates in full, or is conducting its business fraudulently, or if it shall fail to make the statement required by law, he may revoke its authority and prohibit it from doing business until it shall again comply with the provisions of this chapter. If the auditor appoints some one not receiving a regular salary in his office to make this examination, such examiner shall receive five dollars per day for his services in addition to his actual traveling and hotel expenses, to be paid by the association examined, or by the state on the approval of the executive council, if the association fails to pay the same.

The provisions of this section shall apply to fraternal beneficiary associations doing exclusively an accident insurance business, and upon compliance with the provisions of this chapter, and the provisions of chapter eight of title nine of the code, so far as the same are applicable, such associations may be authorized to transact business within this state. If it is advantageous to the holders of certificates that the affairs of said corporation be wound up, the court or judge shall so direct, and for that purpose may appoint a receiver who shall treat all legal claims for death benefits as preferred. The receiver may also, with the approval of the court, or judge, transfer the members of such association who consent thereto to some like solvent association of the state, or divide the surplus accumulated in proportion to the share due each certificate at the time. ## CORPORATIONS FOR PECUNIARY PROFIT.

CHAPTER 1. TITLE IX.

---

Sec. 1607. Who may incorporate. Any number of persons may become incorporated for the transaction of any lawful business, but such incorporation confers no power or privilege not possessed by natural persons, except as hereinafter provided. [22 G. A., ch. 86, § 2; C. '73, § 1058; R., § 1150; C. '51, § 673.]*

Sec. 1608. Single person. Except as otherwise provided by law, a single person may incorporate under the provisions of this chapter, thereby entitling himself to all the privileges and immunities provided herein, but if he adopts the name of an individual or individuals as that of the corporation, he must add thereto the word "incorporated." [C. '73, § 1088; R., § 1179; C. '51, § 702.]

Sec. 1609. Powers. Among the powers of such corporations are the following:

1. To have perpetual succession;
2. To sue and be sued by its corporate name;
3. To have a common seal, which it may alter at pleasure;
4. To render the interests of the stockholders transferable;
5. To exempt the private property of its members from liability for corporate debts, except as otherwise declared;
6. To make contracts, acquire and transfer property,—possessing the same powers in such respects as natural persons;
7. To establish by-laws, and make all rules and regulations necessary for the management of its affairs. [C. '73, § 1059, R. § 1151; C. '51, § 674.]*

Sec. 1610. Articles adopted and recorded—fees to state. Before commencing any business except their own organization, they must adopt articles of incorporation, which must be signed and acknowledged by the incorporators, recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county where the principal place of business is to be, in a book kept therefor, and the recorder must, within five days thereafter, indorse thereon the time when the same were filed, and the book and page where the record will be found. Said articles thus indorsed shall then be forwarded to the secretary of state, and be by him recorded in a book kept for that purpose. Such corporation shall pay to the secretary of state, before a certificate of incorporation is issued, a fee of twenty-five dollars, and, for all authorized stock in excess of ten thousand dollars, an additional fee of one dollar per thousand. Should any corporation increase its capital stock, it shall pay a fee to the secretary of state of one dollar for each thousand dollars of such increase, and a recording fee of ten cents per one hundred words: no recording fee to be less than fifty cents. Farmers' mutual co-operative creamery associations, whose articles of incorporation provide that the business of the association be conducted on a purely mutual and co-operative plan, without capital stock and whose patrons shall share equally in expense and profit, incorporations organized for the manufacture of sugar from beets grown in the state of Iowa, shall be exempt from the payment of the incorporation filing fee provided herein. When articles of incorporation are presented to the secretary of state for the purpose of being filed, if he is satisfied that they are in proper form to meet the requirements of law, that their object is a lawful one and not against the public policy, that their plan for doing business, if any be provided for, is honest and lawful, he shall file them; but if he is of the opinion that they are not in proper form to meet the requirements of law, or that their object is an unlawful one, or against public policy, or that their plan for doing business is dishonest or unlawful, he shall refuse to file them. Should a question of doubt arise as to the legality of the articles, he shall submit them to the attorney-general whose duty it shall be to forthwith examine and return them with an opinion in writing touching the point or points concerning which inquiry has been made of him. If such opinion is in favor of the legality of the articles, and no other objections are apparent, they shall then, upon payment of the proper fee, be filed and otherwise dealt with as the law provides. If, however, such opinion be against their legality they shall not be filed.

Upon the rejection of any articles of incorporation by the secretary of state, except for the reason that they have been held by the attorney-general to be illegal, they shall, if the person or persons presenting them so request, be submitted to the executive council, which shall, as soon as practicable, consider the said articles and if the council determines that the articles are in proper form, of honest purpose, not against public policy, nor otherwise objectionable, it shall so advise the secretary of state in writing, whereupon he shall, upon the payment of the proper fees, file the same and proceed otherwise as the law directs; but if the council sustains the previous action of the secretary of state in rejecting said articles, such decision by the council shall be reported to the secretary of state in writing, and he shall then return said articles to the person or persons presenting them with such explanation as shall be proper in the case.

Nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing or modifying any statute now in force in respect to the approval of articles of incorporation relating to insurance companies, building and loan associations or investment companies. [26 G. A., ch. 98; 17 G. A., ch. 23; C. '73, § 1060; R., § 1152; C. '51, § 675; 27 G. A., ch. 40, §§ 1, 2; 27 G. A., ch. 41, § 1, 29 G. A., ch. 66, § 1; 32 G. A., ch. 70; 33 G. A., ch. 104, § 1.]*

Sec. 1611. Limit of indebtedness. Such articles must fix the highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation is at any one time to be subject, which in no case except risks of insurance companies, and liabilities of banks not in excess of their available assets, not including their capital, shall exceed two-thirds of its capital stock. But the provisions of this section shall not apply to the bonds or other railway or street railway securities, issued or guaranteed by railway or street railway companies of the state, in aid of the location, construction and equipment of railways or street railways to an amount not exceeding sixteen thousand dollars per mile of single track, standard gauge, or eight thousand dollars per mile of single track, narrow gauge, lines of road for each mile of railway or street railway actually constructed and equipped. Nor shall the provisions of this section apply to the debentures or bonds of any company incorporated under the provisions of this chapter, the payment of which shall be secured by an actual transfer of real estate securities for the benefit and protection of purchasers thereof; such securities to be at least equal in amount to the par value of such bonds or debentures, and to be first liens upon unincumbered real estate worth at least twice the amount loaned thereon. [21 G. A., ch. 57; 20 G. A., ch. 22; C. '73, § 1061; R., § 1153; C. '51, § 676.]*

Sec. 1612. Place of business—list of officers—notice or process—upon whom and how served. Any corporation organized under the laws of this state shall fix upon and designate in its articles of incorporation its principal place of business, which must be in this state, and if outside the limits of a city or town then its postoffice address must be given. The place of business so designated shall not be changed except through an amendment to its articles of incorporation. Its place of business shall be in charge of an agent of the corporation and shall be the place where it shall hold its meetings, keep a record of its proceedings and its stock and transfer books. Provided that any corporation organized under the laws of this state that does not maintain an office in the county of its organization, or transact business in this state, shall file with the secretary of state a written instrument duly signed and sealed, authorizing the secretary of state to acknowledge service or [of] notice or process for and in behalf of such corporation in this state, and consenting that service of notice or process may be made upon the secretary of state, and when so made shall be taken and held as valid as if served according to the laws of this state, and waiving all claim or right or error by reason of such acknowledgment of service. Such notice or process, with a copy thereof, may be mailed to the secretary of state at Des Moines, Iowa, in a registered letter addressed to him by his official title, and he shall immediately upon its receipt acknowledge service thereon in behalf of the defendant corporation by writing thereon, giving the date thereof, and shall immediately return such notice or process in a registered letter to the clerk of the court in which the suit is pending, addressed by his official title and shall also forthwith mail such copy, with a copy of his acknowledgment of service written thereon, in a registered letter addressed to the corporation or person who shall be named or designated by the corporation in such written instrument. If any such corporation shall fail to file with the secretary of state the power and authority to acknowledge service as herein provided on or before July 1, 1906, it shall be the duty of the secretary of state to notify such corporation to file such power and authority within thirty days thereafter, and in case of failure to comply with such notice it shall be the duty of the attorney-general of the state to proceed against such corporation to forfeit its chapter and wind up its affairs. [31 G. A., ch. 64; 33 G. A., ch. 104, § 2, ch. 105, § 10.]

Sec. 1613. Notice published—how—what to contain. A notice must be published once each week for four weeks in succession in some newspaper as convenient as practicable to the principal place of business, which must contain:

1. The name of the corporation and its principal place of business;
2. The general nature of the business to be transacted;
3. The amount of capital stock authorized and the times and conditions on which it is to be paid in;
4. The time of the commencement and termination of the corporation;
5. By what officers or persons its affairs are to be conducted, and the times when and manner in which they will be elected;
6. The highest amount of indebtedness to which it is at any time to subject itself;
7. Whether private property is to be exempt from corporate debts.

Proof of such publication, by affidavit of the publisher of the newspaper in which it is made, shall be filed with the secretary of state, and shall be evidence of the fact. [C. '73, §§ 1062-3; R., §§ 1154-5; C. '51, §§ 677-8; 29 G. A., ch. 67, § 1.]*

Sec. 1613-a. Legalizing—defective publication. That each corporation heretofore incorporated under the laws of the state of Iowa which have [has] caused notice of their [its] incorporation to be published once each week for four consecutive weeks in some daily, semi-weekly or tri-weekly newspaper, instead of causing the same to be published in each issue of such newspaper for four consecutive weeks are hereby legalized and are declared legal incorporations the same as though the law had been complied with in all respects in regard to the publication of notice. [29 G. A., ch. 226, § 1.]

Sec. 1614. May begin business. The corporation may commence business as soon as the certificate is issued by the secretary of state, and its acts shall be valid if the publication in a newspaper is made within three months from the date of such certificate. [17 G. A., ch. 23; C. '73, § 1064; R. § 1156; C. '51, § 679.]*

Sec. 1615. Change of articles. Amendments to articles of incorporation making changes in any of the provisions of the articles may be made at any annual meeting of the stockholders or special meeting called for that purpose, and they shall be valid only when recorded, approved and published as the original articles are required to be. If no increase is made in the amount of capital stock, a certificate fee of $1.00 and a recording fee of ten cents per one hundred words must be paid. No recording fee less than fifty cents. Where capital stock is increased the certificate fee shall be omitted but a filing fee of one dollar per thousand dollars of such increase together with a recording fee of ten cents per one hundred words shall be paid. Such amendment need only be signed and acknowledged by such officers of the corporation as may be designated by the stockholders to perform such act. [22 G. A., ch. 88; C. '73, § 1065; R. § 1157; C. '51, § 680; 33 G. A., ch. 104, § 5.]*

Sec. 1616. Individual property liable. A failure to substantially comply with the foregoing requirements in relation to organization and publicity shall render the individual property of the stockholders liable for the corporate debts; but incorporators and stockholders in railway and street railway companies shall be liable only for the amount of stock held by them therein. [C. '73, § 1068; R., §§ 1166, 1338; C. '51, § 689.]*

Sec. 1617. Dissolution—notice of. A corporation may be dissolved prior to the period fixed in the articles of incorporation, by unanimous consent, or in accordance with the provisions of its articles, and notice thereof must be given in the same manner and for the same time as is required for its organization. [C. '73, §§ 1066-7; R., §§ 1159-60; C. '51, §§ 682-3.]*

Sec. 1618. Duration—renewal—certificate and articles to be recorded—fees—notice—proof filed. Corporations for the construction and operation, or the operation alone of steam railways, interurban railways and street railways; for the establishment and conduct of savings banks, or for the transaction of the business of life insurance, may be formed to endure fifty years; those for other purposes, not to exceed twenty years; but in either case they may be renewed from time to time for the same or shorter periods, within three months before or after the time for the termination thereof, if a majority of the votes cast at any regular election, or special election called for that purpose, be in favor of such renewal, and if those wishing such renewal will purchase the stock of those opposed thereto at its real value. Such renewals shall date from the expiration of the corporate period which it succeeds and shall be limited in duration to a period not exceeding the time allowed by law to the same class of corporations. Within five days after the said action of the stockholders for the renewal of any corporation, a certificate, showing the proceedings resulting in such renewal, sworn to by president and secretary of the corporation, or by such other officers as may be designated by the stockholders, together with the articles of incorporation, may be the original articles of incorporation, or amended or substituted articles, shall be filed for record in the office of the recorder of the county in which the principal place of business of said corporation is situated, and the same shall be recorded. Upon filing with the secretary of state the said certificate and articles of incorporation, within ten days after they are filed with the recorder, and upon the payment to the secretary of state of a fee of twenty-five (25) dollars, together with a recording fee of ten cents per one hundred words, and an additional fee of one (1) dollar per thousand for all authorized stock in excess of ten thousand ($10,000) dollars, the secretary of state shall file the said certificate and the said articles of incorporation in a book to be kept by him for that purpose, and shall issue a certificate for the renewal of the corporation. Within ten (10) months after the filing of the certificate and articles of incorporation with the secretary of state, the corporation so renewed shall publish a notice of renewal. Said notice shall be published once each week for four weeks in succession in a newspaper most convenient as practicable to the principal place of business of the corporation, and proof of publication filed in the office of the secretary of state, and shall contain the matters and things required to be published by section sixteen hundred and thirteen (1613) of the code, relating to original incorporations. [1069; R., § 1158; C. '51, § 681; 28 G. A., ch. 56, § 1; 29 G. A., ch. 66, § 2; 30 G. A., ch. 2, § 13; 33 G. A., ch. 104, § 3.]*

Sec. 1618-a. Renewal of corporate existence. The corporate existence of any state or savings bank may be renewed indefinitely, from time to time, for a period not longer than that for which such banks may organize, by an affirmative vote of two-thirds (2-3) of the shareholders thereof, at a stockholders' meeting held for that purpose, within three months before or after the time of the expiration of its charter as shown by its certificate of incorporation, issued by the secretary of state. Such meeting shall be called upon a notice signed by at least two (2) officers of the bank and by a majority of its directors, specifying the object of the meeting, and the time and place thereof, and published once a week for four (4) consecutive weeks before the time at which the same is to be held in some newspaper of general circulation in the county wherein the bank is located. If at such meeting a required vote is given, a certificate of the proceedings shall be issued, and compliance with the foregoing provisions and the time to the corporate period is to be continued, shall be signed and verified by the affidavit of the chairman and secretary of the meeting, certified to by a majority of the board of directors, and together with the articles of incorporation, as they exist at the date of the meeting, shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of the proper county and filed, recorded and fees paid, as provided in section sixteen hundred eighteen (1618) of the code and shall be by the secretary of state certified to the auditor of state. When the meeting is held previous to the expiration of the charter of the bank, such amendments may be made to the articles of incorporation, subject to the provisions thereof, as may be deemed necessary and whether held before or after the extension of the corporate period, such changes may be made in the articles as are necessary to show the time to which the corporate period is extended and the names of the officers and directors at the time of the renewal or extension. When the above has been complied with, the auditor of state shall issue to such bank a certificate as provided in section eighteen hundred forty-three (1843) of the code, notice of which shall be published as required by the provisions of said section. [31 G. A., ch. 65.]

Sec. 1618b was repealed by 33 G. A., ch. 104, § 6.

Sec. 1619. Legislative control. The articles of incorporation, by-laws, rules and regulations of corporations hereafter organized under the provisions of this title, or whose organization may be adopted or amended hereunder, shall at all times be subject to legislative control, and may be at any time altered, abridged, or set aside by law, and every franchise obtained, used or enjoyed by such corporation may be regulated, withheld, or be subject to conditions imposed upon the enjoyment thereof, whenever the general assembly shall deem necessary for the public good. [C. '73, § 1090.]*

Sec. 1620. Fraud—penalty for. Intentional fraud in failing to comply substantially with the articles of incorporation, or in deceiving the public or individuals in relation to their means or their liabilities, shall be a misdemeanor, and shall subject those guilty thereof to fine and imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court. Any person who has sustained injury from such fraud may also recover damages therefor against those guilty of participating in such fraud. [C. '73, § 1071; R., § 1163; C. '51, § 686.]*

Sec. 1621. Diversion of funds. The diversion of the funds of the corporation to other objects than those mentioned in its articles and in the notice published, if any persons be injured thereby, and the payment of dividends which leaves insufficient funds to meet the liabilities thereof, shall be such fraud as will subject those guilty thereof to the penalties of the preceding section and such dividends, or their equivalent, in the hands of stockholders, shall be subject to such liabilities. If the directors or other officers or agents of any corporation shall declare and pay any dividend when such corporation is known by them to be insolvent, or any dividend the payment of which would render insolvent, or which would diminish the amount of its capital stock all directors, officers or agents knowingly consenting thereto shall be jointly and severally liable for all the debts of such corporation then existing, but dividends made in good faith before knowledge of the occurring of losses shall not come within the provisions of this section. [C. '73, §§ 1072-3; R., §§ 1164-5; C. '51, §§ 687-8.]*

Sec. 1622. Forfeiture. Any intentional violation by the board of directors or the managing officers of the corporation of the provisions of the two preceding sections shall work a forfeiture of the corporate privileges, to be enforced as provided by law. If the indebtedness of any corporation shall exceed the amount of its capital stock, or if the indebtedness permitted by law, the directors and officers of such corporation knowingly consenting thereto shall be personally and individually liable to the creditors of such corporation for such excess. [C. '73 §§ 1074-5; R., §§ 1167-8; C. '51, §§ 690-1.]

Sec. 1623. Keeping false accounts. The intentional keeping of false books or accounts shall be a misdemeanor on the part of any officer, agent or employee of the corporation guilty thereof, or of any one whose duty it is to see that such books or accounts are correctly kept. [Same.]

Sec. 1624. By-laws posted. A copy of the by-laws of the corporation, with the names of all its officers, must be posted in the principal places of business subject to public inspection. [C. '73 § 1076; R., § 1161; C. '51, § 684.]

Sec. 1625. Statement of stock and indebtedness. A statement of the amount of capital stock subscribed, the amount of capital actually paid in, and the amount of the indebtedness in a general way, must also be kept posted in like manner, which shall be corrected as often as any material change takes place in relation to any part of the subject-matter thereof. [C. '73, § 1077; R., § 1162; C. '51, § 685.]*

Sec. 1626. Transfer of shares. The transfer of shares is not valid, except as between the parties thereto, until regularly entered upon the books of the company, showing the name of the person by and to whom transferred, the numbers or other designation of the shares, and the date of the transfer; but such transfer shall not exempt the person making it from any liability of such corporation created prior thereto. Its books must be so kept as to show the original stockholders, their interests, the amount paid on their shares, and all transfers thereof; which books, or a copy thereof, so far as the items mentioned in this section are concerned, shall be subject to the inspection of any person desiring the same. When any shares of stock shall be transferred to any person, firm or corporation, as collateral security, such person, firm or corporation may notify in writing the secretary of the corporation whose stock is transferred as aforesaid, and from the time of such notice, and until written notice that said stock shall have ceased to be held as collateral security, said stock so transferred and noticed as aforesaid shall be considered in law as transferred on the books of the corporation which issued said stock without any actual transfer on the books of such corporation of such stock. In such case, it shall be the duty of the secretary or cashier of the corporation or of the person or firm to which such stock shall have been transferred as collateral security at once, upon its ceasing to be so held, to inform the secretary of the corporation issuing such stock of such fact. The secretary of the company whose stock is transferred as collateral shall keep a record showing such notice of transfer as collateral and notice of discharge as collateral, subject to public inspection. No holder of stock as collateral security shall be liable for assessments on the same. [26 G. A., ch. 81; C. '73, § 1078; R., § 1169; C. '51, § 692.]*

Sec. 1627. Amount paid in. No certificate or shares of stock shall be issued, delivered or transferred by any corporation, officer or agent thereof, or by the owner of such certificate or shares, without having indorsed on the face thereof what amount or portion of the par value has been paid to the corporation issuing the same, and whether such payment has been in money or property. Any person violating the provisions of this section, or knowingly making a false statement on such certificate, shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and shall stand committed to the county jail until such fine and costs are paid. This section shall not apply to railway or quasi public corporations organized before the first day of October, 1897. [28 G. A., ch. 57, § 1.]*

Sec. 1628. Non-user. Any corporation organized under this chapter shall cease to exist by non-user of its franchise for two years at any one time, but omission to elect officers or hold meetings at any time prescribed by its articles or by-laws shall not work a forfeiture, if such election is held within two years of the time appointed therefor. [C. '73, § 1079; R., § 1170; C. '51, § 693.]*

Sec. 1629. Expiration. Corporations whose charters expire by limitation or the voluntary act of the stockholders may nevertheless continue to act for the purpose of winding up their affairs. [C. '73, § 1080; R., § 1171; C. '51, § 694.]*

Sec. 1630. Sinking fund. For the purpose of repairs, rebuilding, enlarging, or to meet contingencies, or for the purpose of creating a sinking fund, the corporation may set apart a sum which it may loan, and take proper securities therefor. [C. '73, § 1081; R., § 1176; C. '51, § 699.]

Sec. 1631. Liability of stockholders. Neither anything in this chapter contained, nor any provisions in the articles of incorporation, shall exempt the stockholders from individual liability to the amount of the unpaid installments on the stock owned by them, or transferred by them for the purpose of defrauding creditors; and execution against the company may, to that extent, be levied upon the private property of any such individual. In none of the cases contemplated in this chapter can the private property of the stockholders be levied upon for the payment of corporate debts while corporate property can be found with which to satisfy the same; but it will be sufficient proof that no property can be found, if an execution has issued on a judgment against the corporation, and a demand has been thereon made of some one of the last acting officers of the body for property on which to levy, and he neglects to point out any such property. In suits by creditors to recover unpaid installments upon shares of stock against any person who has in any manner obtained such stock of the corporation, the stockholder shall be liable for the difference between the amount paid by him to the corporation for said stock and the face value thereof. [C. '73, § 1082; R., § 1172; C. '51, § 695.]*

Sec. 1632. Corporate property exhausted. Before any stockholder can be charged with the payment of a judgment rendered for a corporate debt, an action shall be brought against him, in any stage of which he may point out corporate property subject to levy; and, upon his satisfying the court of the existence of such property, by affidavit or otherwise, the cause may be continued, or execution against him stayed, until the property can be levied upon and sold, and the court may subsequently render judgment for any balance which there may be after disposing of the corporate property; but if a demand of property has been made as contemplated in the preceding section, the costs of said action shall, in any event, be paid by the company or the defendant therein, but he shall not be permitted to controvert the validity of the judgment rendered against the corporation, unless it was rendered through fraud and collusion. [C. '73, §§ 1083-4; R., §§ 1173-4; C. '51, §§ 696-7.]*

Sec. 1633. Indemnity—contribution. When the property of a stockholder is taken for a corporate debt, he may maintain an action against the corporation for indemnity, and against any of the other stockholders for contribution. [C. '73, § 1085; R., § 1175; C. '51, § 698.]*

Sec. 1634. Franchise sold on execution. The franchise of a corporation may be levied upon under execution and sold, but the corporation shall not become thereby dissolved, and no dissolution of the original corporation shall affect the franchise, and the purchaser becomes vested with all the powers of the corporation therefor. Such franchise shall be sold without appraisalment. [C. '73, § 1086; R., § 1177; C. '51, § 700.]*

Sec. 1635. Production of books. In proceedings by or against a corporation or a stockholder to charge his private property, or the dividends received by him, the court may, upon motion of either party, upon cause shown for that purpose, compel the officers or agents of the corporation to produce the books and records of the corporation. [C. '73, § 1087; R., § 1178; C. '51, § 701.]

Sec. 1636. Estoppel. No person or persons acting as a corporation shall be permitted to set up the want of a legal organization as a defense to an action against them as a corporation, nor shall any person sued on a contract made with such an acting corporation, or sued for an injury to its property, or a wrong done to its interests, be permitted to set up a want of such legal organization in his defense. [C. '73, § 1089; R., § 1181; C. '51, § 704.]*

Sec. 1637. Foreign corporation—filing articles—process. Any corporation for pecuniary profit other than for carrying on mercantile or manufacturing business, as clearly defined and restricted by its articles of incorporation organized under the laws of another state, or of any territory of the United States, or of any foreign country, which has transacted business in the state of Iowa since the first day of September, 1886, or desires hereafter to transact business in this state, and which has not a permit to do such business, shall file with the secretary of state a certified copy of its articles of incorporation, duly attested by the secretary of state or other state officer in whose office the original articles were filed, accompanied by a resolution of its board of directors or stockholders authorizing the filing thereof, and also authorizing service of process to be made upon any of its officers or agents in this state engaged in transacting its business, and requesting the issuance to such corporation of a permit to transact business in this state; said application to contain a stipulation that such permit shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter. Before such permit is issued, the said corporation shall pay to the secretary of state the same fee required for the organization of corporations in this state, and if the capital of such corporation is increased, it shall pay the same fee as is in such event required of corporations organized under the law of this state. Any corporation transacting business in this state prior to the first day of September, 1886, shall be exempt from the payment of the fees required under the provisions of this section. The secretary of state shall thereupon issue to such corporation a permit, in such form as he may prescribe, for the transaction of the business of such corporation, and upon receipt of such permit said corporation shall be permitted and authorized to conduct and carry on its business in this state. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any foreign corporation from buying, selling and otherwise dealing in notes, bonds, mortgages and other securities. [21 G. A., ch. 76, § 1; 33 G. A., ch. 104, § 7.]*

Sec. 1638. Permit. No foreign corporation which has not in good faith complied with the provisions of this chapter and taken out a permit shall possess the right to exercise the power of eminent domain, or exercise any of the rights and privileges conferred upon corporations, until it has so complied herewith and taken out such permit. [21 G. A., ch. 76, § 2.]

Sec. 1639. Penalty. Any foreign corporation that shall carry on its business in violation of the provisions of this chapter, in the state of Iowa, by its officers, agents or otherwise, without having complied with this statute and taken out and having a valid permit, shall forfeit and pay to the state, for each and every day in which such business is transacted and carried on, the sum of one hundred dollars, to be recovered by suit in any court having jurisdiction; and any agent, officer or employe who shall knowingly act or transact such business for such corporation, when it has no valid permit as provided herein, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and for such offense shall be fined not to exceed one hundred dollars, or be imprisoned in the county jail not to exceed thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and pay all costs of prosecution. Nothing contained in this chapter shall relieve any person, company, corporation, association or partnership from the performance of any duty or obligation now enjoined upon or required of it, or from the payment of any penalty or liability created by the statutes heretofore in force, and all foreign corporations, and the officers and agents thereof, doing business in this state shall be subject to all the liabilities, restrictions and duties that are or may be imposed upon corporations of like character organized under the general laws of this state, and shall have no other or greater powers. [21 G. A., ch. 76, § 4.]*

Sec. 1640. Dissolution—receiver. Courts of equity shall have full power, on good cause shown, to dissolve or close up the business of any corporation, and to appoint a receiver therefor, who shall be a resident of the state of Iowa. An action therefor may be instituted by the attorney-general in the name of the state, reserving, however, to the stockholders and creditors all rights now possessed by them. *

Sec. 1641. Ownership of property. Corporations organized in any foreign country or corporations organized in this country, the stock of which is owned in whole or in part by non-resident aliens, shall have the same rights, powers and privileges with regard to the purchase and ownership of real estate in this state as are granted to non-resident aliens in section twenty-eight hundred and ninety (2890) of the code. [30 G. A., ch. 54.]

Sec. 1641-a. Right to vote stock. Every executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, shall represent the stock in his hands at all the corporate meetings, and may vote the same as a stockholder; and every person who shall pledge his stock, in the absence of a written agreement to the contrary, may represent the same at all such meetings and vote accordingly. The owner of corporate stock levied upon by attachment or other proceedings, shall have the right to vote the same at all corporate meetings, until such time as that he shall have been divested of his title thereto by execution sale. But nothing contained in this section shall in any manner conflict with any provision in the articles of incorporation or the by-laws of the corporation issuing the stock. [30 G. A., ch. 55.]

Sec. 1641-b. Capital stock—how issued—executive council to fix value. That from and after the passage of this act no corporation organized under the laws of the state of Iowa, except building and loan associations as defined and provided for in chapter thirteen (13), title nine (9), of the code shall issue any capital stock or any certificate or certificates of shares of capital stock, or any substitute therefor, until the corporation has received the par value thereof. If it is proposed to pay for said capital stock property or in any other thing than money, the corporation proposing the same must, before issuing capital stock in any form, apply to the executive council of the state of Iowa for leave so to do. Such application shall state the amount of capital stock proposed to be issued for a consideration other than money, and set forth specifically the property or other thing to be received in payment for such stock. Thereupon, it shall be the duty of the executive council to make investigation, under such rules as it may prescribe, and to ascertain the real value of the property or other thing which the corporation is to receive for the stock; and shall enter its finding, fixing the value at which the corporation may receive the same in payment for capital stock; and no corporation shall issue capital stock for the said property or thing for a greater amount than the value so fixed and determined by the executive council. [32 G. A., ch. 71, § 1.]

Sec. 1641-c. Certificate filed with secretary of state. It shall be the duty of every corporation to file a certificate under oath with the secretary of state, within ten (10) days after the issuance of any capital stock, stating the date of issue, the amount issued, the sum received therefor, if payment be made in money, or the property or thing taken, if such be the methods of payment. [32 G. A., ch. 71, § 2.]

Sec. 1641-d. Cancellation of stock. The capital stock of any corporation issued in violation of the terms and provisions hereof, shall be void, and in a suit brought by the attorney-general on behalf of the state of Iowa in any court having jurisdiction, a decree of cancellation shall be entered; and if the corporation has received any money or thing of value for the said stock, such money or thing of value shall be returned to the individual, firm, company or corporation from whom it was received, and if represented by labor or other service of intangible nature, the value thereof shall constitute a claim against the corporation issuing stock in exchange therefor. [32 G. A., ch. 71, § 3; 33 G. A., ch. 104, § 4.]

Sec. 1641-e. Dissolution of corporation. Any corporation violating the provisions hereof shall, upon the application of the attorney-general, in behalf of the state, made to any court of competent jurisdiction, be dissolved, its affairs wound up, and its assets distributed among the stockholders other than those who have received the stock so unlawfully issued. [32 G. A., ch. 71, § 4.]

Sec. 1641-f. Penalty. Any officer, agent or representative of a corporation who violates any of the provisions hereof, shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than two hundred ($200) dollars, nor more than one thousand ($1,000) dollars, and be imprisoned in the county jail for not less than thirty (30) days nor more than six (6) months. [32 G. A., ch. 71, § 5.]

Sec. 1641-g. False statements—penalty. Every director, officer or agent of any corporation or joint-stock association, who, knowingly concurs in making, publishing or posting, either generally or privately to the stockholders or other persons, any written report, exhibit, or statement of its affairs or pecuniary condition, or book or notice containing any material statement which is false, or any untrue or willfully or fraudulently exaggerated report, prospectus, account, statement of operations, values, business, profits, expenditures, or prospects, or any other paper or document intended to produce or give, or having a tendency to produce or give, the shares of stock in such corporation a greater value or a less apparent or market value than they really possess, is guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not to exceed one year, or by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed six months or a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars. [32 G. A., ch. 72.]

Sec. 1641-h. Political contributions by corporations prohibited. It shall be unlawful for any corporation doing business within the state, or any officer, agent or representative thereof acting for such corporation, to give or contribute any money, property, labor or thing of value, directly or indirectly, to any member of any political committee, political party, or employe or representative thereof, or to any candidate for any public office or candidate for nomination to any public office or to the representative of such candidate, for campaign expenses or for any political purpose whatsoever, or to any person partnership or corporation for the purpose of influencing or causing such person, partnership or corporation to influence any elector of the state to vote for or against any candidate for public office or for nomination for public office or to any public officer for the purpose of influencing his official action, but nothing in this act shall be construed to restrain or abridge the liberty of the press or prohibit the consideration and discussion therein of candidacies, nominations, public officers or political questions. [32 G. A., ch. 73, § 2.]

Sec. 1641-j. [32 G. A., ch. 73, § 3.]

Sec. 1641-k. ## CHAPTER 105. LAWS OF 33 G. A.

CORPORATIONS TO MAKE ANNUAL REPORT AND PAY ANNUAL

scribe and which shall be in force and effect for one year from and after the first day of July of the year in which it is issued, except that where the term of a corporate existence shall expire in less than a year from the first day of July aforesaid, then said permit shall be issued for such unexpired term only, provided, however, that any corporation organized under the laws of this state, and any foreign corporation filing a certified copy of its articles of incorporation after the first day of April of any year, shall be exempt from the provisions of this act for the period ending one year from the first day of July following, after which it shall be subject to all the provisions of this act.

Sec. 3. Annual fee. Every corporation whose corporate period has not expired, which has heretofore obtained, or may hereafter obtain, a certificate of incorporation or permit under the provisions of chapter one (1) of title nine (9) of the code to transact business in this state as a corporation, whether the same be a domestic or a foreign corporation, shall pay to the secretary of state an annual fee in the sum of one dollar ($1.00).

Sec. 4. Failure to report and pay fee—penalties. Any corporation organized under the laws of this state, and any foreign corporation authorized to do business in this state, which shall fail to make the report and pay the annual fee provided for in this act, and within the time required in section one (1) hereof, shall incur the following penalties beginning with the month of September and dating from the first day thereof to wit: For the month of September the sum of two dollars ($2.00), for the month of October the sum of four dollars ($4.00), for the month of November the sum of six dollars ($6.00), for the month of December the sum of eight dollars ($8.00), and for each month thereafter the sum of ten dollars ($10.00). If on the first day of May following, such corporation shall not have filed the annual report and paid the annual fee, together with all monthly penalties due at the time of filing said report and paying said fee, the secretary of state shall furnish to the attorney-general a list of delinquent domestic corporations and he may direct the county attorney of the county in which the corporation has its principal place of business to bring suit for the collection of the fee and penalties then due, or may bring such action himself. Any domestic corporation may, prior to the first day of May, 1910, and the first day of May of any subsequent year, escape the payment of fee and penalties by dissolving the corporation and filing with the secretary of state a proof of publication of notice of dissolution. Any foreign corporation that shall fail to make the annual report and pay the annual fee and penalties that may be due shall thereby forfeit its right to do business within this state.

Sec. 5. List of delinquent corporations. During the month of August of each year the secretary of state shall prepare a list of all delinquent corporations and file the same in his office, and on or before the first day of September he shall send by registered mail to each delinquent a notice of such delinquency and of the penalties provided in section four of this act, and that if the annual report required is not filed and the annual fee paid, together with penalties due, on or before the last day of April, then on the first day of May following, notice of such delinquency will be filed with the attorney-general who may cause action to be brought for the collection of the fee and penalties due the state.

Sec. 6. Declaration of forfeiture and cancellation. On the first day of May following the date of the notice provided for in section five (5) of this act, all foreign corporations that have not complied with the provisions of this act shall forfeit the right to transact business in this state and a declaration of forfeiture and cancellation shall be entered upon the margin of the record of the certified copy of the articles of incorporation of such company in the office of the secretary of state or in such other record as the secretary of state may provide.

Sec. 7. Not applicable to banks and certain other corporations. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed as imposing an annual fee or requiring a report from any corporation organized for religious, educational, scientific or charitable purposes or other corporations organized under chapter two (2) of title nine (9) of the code, or of any corporation engaged in the banking business.

Sec. 8. List of live corporations—file with county records. After the first day of November and not later than the first day of January of each year, the secretary of state shall compile an alphabetical list of the domestic and foreign corporations that have complied with the provisions of this act, together with postoffice address, and mail a copy thereof to each county recorder in the state, who shall file the same in his office.

Sec. 9. Secretary of state to notify corporations. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state between the first day of March and the first day of July of each year to notify all corporations whose corporate period has not expired, or, that have not dissolved according to law, that are subject to the provisions of this act, of the requirements herein made, enclosing therewith a blank form of report and application as herein provided; and the mailing of said notice at Des Moines, Iowa, addressed to the corporation at its postoffice address as shown by the record of his office shall be deemed a full, complete and legal notice for the purpose of this act.

INSURANCE

CHAPTER 4.

INSURANCE OTHER THAN LIFE.

Section 1687. Name.

An insurance company, although authorized to do business by the auditor of state, may be enjoined from using a name which is so similar to the name of a foreign insurance company authorized to do business in the state that it is calculated to deceive the public. Atlas Assurance Co. v. Atlas Insurance Co., 112 N. W., 232.

Sec. 1689. Kind of company.

The provisions as to mutual benefit associations are distinct from those for the incorporation of mutual companies, and the statutory requirement that the word "mutual" shall be included in the name of the company organized under the latter provisions has no application to such a society. Moore v. Union Fraternal Acc. Assn., 103-424.

Sec. 1690. Stock or mutual.

A mutual company cannot issue policies upon the stock plan, and such policies, if issued, are illegal and void. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

A company issuing a policy on the stock plan will be presumed to have authority to issue such a policy until the contrary appears. One contracting with the company is not bound to know at his peril whether the company has complied with the condition authorizing it to do a stock insurance business. Harris-Emery Co. v. Pitcairn, 122-595.

Where a company organized on a mutual plan issued policies of insurance on the stock plan, held, that such policies were invalid and that members of the company were not subject to assessment for losses under such policies. Cory v. Sherman, 64 N. W., 828.

Sec. 1692. Premium notes of mutual company.

While it is improper and unauthorized in a mutual company to make contributors to a guarantee fund members of the corporation and require directors to be selected from their number, yet it is not in itself illegal to create a guaranty fund and provide for the repayment of money so advanced by the contributors to such fund when it can be raised by assessments on the members, and the invalid provisions making such guarantors members of the company will not render the guaranty fund notes given by them void. Berry v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 62 N. W., 681.

Failure of a party giving such guaranty note to pay an assessment thereon without notice may by the terms of the contract forfeit prior payments made and credits received by him and defeat his right to recover such payments from the company. Ibid.

Sec. 1698. Secretary and other officers—by-laws—records.

While members of a mutual company may be bound by by-laws adopted after they become members, nevertheless the terms of a policy of insurance will be presumed to be governed by the by-laws in force when it is issued, and not to be affected by those subsequently adopted. Farmers' Mut. Hail Ins. Assn. v. Slattery, 115-410.

By-laws duly adopted, but not posted as required by law, are valid and controlling as to all persons informed of their existence, the posting being required for the sole purpose of imparting constructive notice, and if the existence of the by-laws is expressly recognized, the person who receives such certificate is bound thereby. Fee v. National Masonic Acc. Assn., 110-271.

The directors of an insurance company organized under this chapter, whether doing business under the ordinary or mutual plan, have the right to ordain and establish by-laws and regulations. The parties may by contract mutually agree to the waiver of a by-law. Houdeck v. Merchants' and Bankers' Ins. Co., 71 N. W., 354.

Sec. 1699. Funds invested.

While as between the state and the company the investment of its surplus in bank stock may be unauthorized, such a transaction entered into by the officers for the purpose of avoiding loss to the company may be so ratified by the directors in taking advantage of the benefits thereof as to estop the corporation from treating the transaction as ultra vires. Fidelity Ins. Co. v. German Sav. Bank, 127-591.

Sec. 1706. Settlement of losses.

The authority of making assessments conferred on the directors is exclusive and cannot be exercised by other officers under the direction of such directors. Farmers' Milling Co. v. Mill Owners' Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 127-314.

Sec. 1709. Kinds of insurance—limitation of risk—any company.

A policy of insurance against loss by burglary, although issued prior to 28 G. A., ch. 60, is valid. Bankers' Mut. Cas. Co. v. First National Bank, 131-456.

The statutory provision authorizing insurance against "loss or damage by fire or other casualty" is sufficiently broad to cover such casualty as burglary. Ibid.

In ordinary usage, "casualty" is commonly applied to losses and injuries which happen suddenly and unexpectedly, not in the usual course of events, and without any design on the part of the person suffering the injury, although the result is brought about by the conscious or intended act of another. Ibid.

An association organized by a railroad company for the benefit of employees who participate therein by payment of indemnity in case of accident or death is not within the provisions of the statutes as to insurance. Maine v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 70 N. W., 630.

Sub-division 5—accident defined. An accident within the meaning of a policy of insurance which provides that the injury must occur "through external, violent, and accidental means," is a result, the inducing cause for which was not put in motion by the voluntary and unintentional act of the person injured. Payne v. Frat. Acc. Assn., 119 Iowa, 342.

Sec. 1714. Annual statement.

The statement required as to the financial condition of an insurance company is intended not alone for the information of the auditor, to enable him to determine whether he should issue a certificate, but also by way of information to the public. The fact that such statement is required to be published indicates such legislative intention. Therefore not only one who contracts for insurance, but also one who becomes a purchaser of stock of the company, is entitled to rely upon such statements, and a purchaser of stock may recover damages against an officer of a company for an intentional false statement which has operated to his prejudice. Warfield v. Clark, 118-69.

The provision that the statement shall show expenditures for the preceding year, and also the amount of losses paid during that time, how much subsequent to the date of the preceding statement, and the amount at which such losses were estimated in such statement, implies that some of the matters to be included in the statement are to be given by way of estimate. Ibid.

The sworn statement of the financial condition of an insurance company, filed with the auditor, is for the protection of the public, and one purchasing stock has a right to rely thereon and may maintain an action for deceit against the officer making the same for damages caused by a false statement made therein. Warfield v. Clark, 118 Iowa, 69.

Sec. 1722. Service of process.

It is the written consent of the corporation, and not the statute itself, which confers on the auditor power to acknowledge service. Greaves v. Posner, 111-651.

Where a state prescribes conditions upon which a foreign corporation may do business within it, such corporation thereafter doing business in the state will be presumed to have assented to the conditions prescribed and will be bound accordingly: Fred Miller Brewing Co. v. Council Bluffs Ins. Co., 63 N. W., 565.

It is within the power of a state to prescribe the method by which corporations doing business within its jurisdiction may be brought into court and to designate the officer or agent of such corporation upon whom the process necessary to commence an action may be served: Ibid.

The fact that a policy is issued and accepted in violation of a law prohibiting a company from doing business which has not complied with certain statutory requirements will not be void as between insured and the company, the latter not being allowed to take advantage of such objection, the penalty for violation of the law being imposed upon the company alone: Pennypacker v. Capital Ins. Co., 80-56.

A foreign company has no right to take risks in this state without complying with the requirements of the law whether the contract for such risks are made in this state or not: Seamans v. Zimmerman, 91-363.

Premium notes taken by a company not authorized to do business in this state can not be enforced in an action by a foreign receiver of such company in the courts of this state: Barker v. Lamb, 68 N. W., 686.

A company which has transacted business in the state cannot question the validity of service of notice upon it on the ground that it had not appointed agents, etc., as required by the statute. Sparks v. National Masonic Acc. Assn., 69 N. W., 678.

By complying with these provisions as to the designation of an agent upon whom service may be made, the corporation becomes subject to the laws of the state, and to treatment in many respects as a domestic corporation, and liable to be sued in all respects as such a corporation would be: German Bank v. American F. Ins. Co., 83-491.

Service of process may be made upon any agent of the company within the state: Niagara Inc. Co. v. Rodecker, 47-162.

It is the written consent of the corporation, and not the statute itself, which confers on the auditor power to acknowledge service. Greaves v. Posner, 112-651.

Sec. 1724. Certificate.

The power to exclude foreign corporations includes the right to preclude such corporations from continuing in business without complying with the provisions imposed by statute. Manchester Ins. Co. v. Herriott, 91 Fed., 711.

It is only upon compliance with statutory requirements that foreign companies become entitled to do business within the state. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126-643.

Sec. 1725. Agent to have certificate of authority.

An agent procuring insurance for his principal in a company not authorized to do business in the state becomes liable to the principal for any loss resulting from the failure to procure valid insurance. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126-643.

Sec. 1726. Insurance notes.

A negotiable note which does not state upon its face that it has been taken for insurance will not be subject, in the hands of an innocent holder, to the defense here indicated. The maker must have that fact appear upon the face of the note if he desires to rely upon such defense. Cook v. Weirman, 51-561.

The provisions of this section with reference to notes given for policies of insurance are not applicable to the premium notes taken by a mutual benefit company for policies of insurance issued by them: Corey v. Sherman, 64 N. W., 828.

Sec. 1727. Forfeiture of policies.

This section was designed to give to the assured at least thirty days from the mailing of the notice in which to make the payment to which the notice refers, and the time cannot be shortened by a direction on the envelope containing the notice that it shall be returned if not delivered within fifteen days. Smith v. Continental Ins. Co., 108-382.

Where such notice treats two policies as one, although they are separate and distinct, it should specify the amount required to cancel each policy, and also the amount of the premium about to become due on account thereof. Ibid. Born v. Home Ins. Co., 110-379.

Forfeitures are not favored and the provisions of this section are mandatory and must be strictly followed. McDonald v. Anchor Mut. Ins. Co., 116-371.

Error in stating the amount of the short rate, as fixed by the auditor under the provisions of Code § 1729, will defeat the forfeiture. Ibid.

The provisions of Sec. 1727, as to notice of forfeiture for non-payment of premium note had no application to a forfeiture of membership in a mutual association for failure to pay assessments. Beeman v. Farmers' Pioneer Mut. Ins. Assn., 104-83.

It appears that the legislature intended to provide for constructive notice by mail, to be completed either when the registered letter is mailed or as soon thereafter as it shall be received at the office of its destination by due course of mail. McKenna v. State Ins. Co., 73-453.

The time when the service of notice of forfeiture is complete is the time of mailing the letter in accordance with the provisions of the statute, and not the time when such letter would in due course of mail have reached its destination (arguendo). Ross v. Hawkeye Ins. Co., 83-586; and see Holbrook v. Mill Owners' Mut. Ins. Co., 86-255.

The notice is complete when registration of the letter is made under the rules of the postoffice department which require that not only shall receipt have been given therefor but that it shall have been numbered. Ross v. Hawkeye Ins. Co., 61 N. W., 852.

A notice which did not advise the insured that if the payment was not made the policy would be suspended, held not sufficient to entitle the company to take advantage of a forfeiture on account of such non-payment. Marden v. Hotel Owners' Ins. Co., 85-584.

An insurance company seeking to declare a forfeiture of a policy by reason of the non-payment of the premium note must not only give the maker notice of the proposed suspension of his policy on account of such non-payment, but must also notify him of the amount necessary to pay the customary short rates, including the expense of taking the risk, up to the time the policy will be suspended, in order to cancel the policy. Boyd v. Cedar Rapids Ins. Co., 70-325.

In a particular case, held, that an application by insured for extension of time, and the fact that it was not granted, did not waive the provision as to notice just referred to. Ibid.

The condition in a policy that it shall be suspended on failure of assured to pay the premium note cannot be disregarded except as provided by statute. This statutory provision simply prevents such condition taking effect until thirty days after the specified notice has been given. Harle v. Council Bluffs Ins. Co., 71-401.

In general as to these provisions, see Lewis v. Burlington Ins. Co., 71-97.

Sec. 1728. Cancellation of policy.

An association purporting to be organized under the provisions of § 1160 of the Code of 1873, but in fact exacting premium notes instead of assessments from its members, thereby subjected itself to the requirements of 18 G. A., chap. 210 (Code § 1727), as to giving notice of forfeiture on account of non-payment of such notes. Bradford v. Mut. Ins. Co., 112-495.

The right of assured to cancel the policy and recover back premiums paid in excess of customary short rates cannot be exercised by assigning to another the right to cancel such policy and collect the unearned premium. The assignment would avoid the policy and terminate the right to recover. Nor can such unearned premium be recovered after the policy has been rendered void by taking other insurance. Colby v. Cedar Rapids Ins. Co., 66-577.

If the company elects to enforce a premium note instead of cancelling the policy for non-payment as herein provided, it thereby waives a stipulation in the policy that the insurance shall be forfeited on failure to pay the note as agreed. By accepting payment in pursuance of legal proceedings, even after the loss the company waives the right to avail itself of the condition of forfeiture. Bloom v. State Ins. Co., 62 N. W., 810.

It is optional with the company to allow a policy to remain uncanceled, and to accept payments when made, without waiving its right to insist upon prompt payment at any time thereafter. Morrow v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 84-256.

Sec. 1731. Examination—dissolution.

An insurance company may enforce assessments for the purpose of making good a depletion of its capital, without a requisition from the auditor of state directing such assessment. Iowa National Bank v. Cooper, 131-556.

Sec. 1736. Laws of other states—reciprocity.

Section applied. State v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 77-648.

SECS 1741 to 1744 inclusive applicable to Mutual assessment associations

The provisions of sections 1741 to 1744 inclusive apply to mutual assessment insurance associations organized under chapter 5, title IX of the code as well as to insurance companies organized under chapter 5, title IX. Corson v. Iowa Mut. Fire Ins. Assn., 115 Iowa 455.

SEC 1741 Copy of application

The fact that the application is not embodied in or attached to the policy does not preclude proof of the terms of the application in a suit by the insured against members and officers of a mutual benefit association to compel the payment of the assessment where such evidence is sought to be introduced for the purpose of showing that the assured knew that the company was included in the assessment plan. Moore v. Union Fraternal Assn., 123-124.

The purpose of the statutory provisions under which it is necessary to set the application out in or attach it to the policy is, that when the application is made a part of the contract a true copy must be attached to the policy, so that the writings composing the contract may all appear together and that the insured may be in possession of the evidence of what his contract is. Therefore, held, that the statute contemplates more than a mere substantial copy of the application and yet not a true likeness or fac-simile. The copy must be so exact and accurate as that upon comparison it can be said to be a true copy without resorting to construction. Johnson v. Des Moines L. Assn., 105-273.

Where a copy of an application attached to or incorporated in the policy is defective and incomplete, the company is precluded from proving the falsity of the representations in the application as a defense to an action on the policy. Corson v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 113-641.

Where the copy of an application attached to the policy is totally defective and insufficient, the company cannot show misrepresentations or breach of conditions contained in such application. Corson v. Iowa Mut. Fire Ins. Assn., 115-485.

The provisions of this section are applicable to mutual companies, notwithstanding the provisions of Code § 1759. Ibid.

A premium note, non-payment of which will by the terms of the application render the policy void, must be set out as a part of the application under the provisions of this section. (Following Lewis v. Burlington Ins. Co., 71-97; s. c. 80-259). Summers v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 116-593.

The examiners' report on an application for life insurance is not a part of the application or representation of the assured, and is not required to be included in the copy of the application. The same is true as to notes of instructions given for making the application and answers and notes and indorsements upon the back of the application made for mere convenience. Johnson v. Des Moines L. Assn., 105-273.

Where the copy of the application attached to the policy indicated that it had been signed, but did not show a copy of the signature, held, that it was not such copy as required by the statute, and the terms of the application could not be considered in an action on the policy. Seiler v. Economic L. Assn., 105-87.

It is the application or representations of the assured only that is required to be attached to or indorsed upon the policy. It is not necessary to indorse thereon provisions found in the by-laws of a mutual company by which the policy is issued. Fitzgerald v. Metropolitan Acc. Assn., 106-457.

Endorsement of a copy of the application upon the policy, or its attachment thereto, is a necessary foundation for pleading the falsity of statements made therein. Parker v. Des Moines L. Assn., 108-117.

The statutory provisions requiring insurance companies to attach a copy of the application to each policy of insurance is applicable to fidelity insurance companies. United States F. & G. Co. v. Egg Shippers' Strachboard & F. Co., 148 Fed., 353.

The provisions of this section are applicable to all kinds of insurance and policies, including those issued by benefit associations upon the mutual assessment plan. Newman v. Covenant Mut. Ins. Assn., 76-56; McConnell v. Iowa Mut. Aid Assn., 79-757. (See now § 1819.)

The requirements of this section as to attaching the application to or indorsing it upon the policy are applicable to fraternal association acting in a dual character involving the element of insurance, as well as mutual benefit associations. Grimes v. Northwestern Legion of Honor, 66 N. W., 183. (See now § 1826.)

This and the preceding section of this act apply to all kinds of insurance and not merely to fire insurance. Cook v. Federal L. Assn., 74-746.

It is incompetent, in defense to an action upon a policy, to plead or prove statements made in the application, where such statements are not reduced to writing and a copy thereof is not attached to or indorsed upon the policy. Ellis v. Council Bluffs Ins. Co., 64-507. And see Wallace v. Council Bluffs Ins. Co., 66-139.

Where one premium note was given for two policies on the same property, one against loss by fire and lightning, and one against loss by tornado, and a copy of the note was attached to the former and not to the latter, held, that in an action on the tornado policy, non-payment of the premium note as required could not be relied on. Lewis v. Burlington Ins. Co., 80-259.

Where answers in the application are filled up by the agent taking such application from his own knowledge, the fact that a copy of the application is attached to the policy which is delivered to insured will not bind him to statements thus made, although he fails to notify the company of their falsity. The assured is not required to prove the statements made in the application to be true, and he is therefore not required to examine the copy of the application indorsed on the policy. Donnelly v. Cedar Rapids Ins. Co., 70-693; and see Bennett v. Council Bluffs Ins. Co., 70-600.

The conditions of the policy itself may be shown, although they are not contained in an application a copy of which is attached to the policy. Thus a failure to disclose the state of the title may be a representation appearing in the policy itself and may be shown though not appearing in the application attached to the policy. McKinnon v. Mutual F. Ins. Co., 89-170.

The provisions of this section are broad enough to cover any renewal or reinstatement of the policy of insurance which has become invalid. Goodwin v. Provident Savings Life Assurance Society, 66 N. W., 157.

Where a copy of an application attached to or incorporated in the policy is defective and incomplete, the company is precluded from proving the falsity of the representations in the application as a defense to an action on the policy. Corson v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 113-641.

Where the copy of an application attached to the policy is totally defective and insufficient, the company cannot show misrepresentations or breach of conditions contained in such application. Corson v. Iowa Mut. Fire Ins. Assn., 88 N. W., 1086.

The provisions of section 1741 held applicable to fraternal societies issuing certificates on lives of members. Stork v. Supreme Lodge K. of P., 113-724.

Sec. 1742. Evidence of value—proofs -action.

Evidence of value: The statute does not attempt to fix, as the measure of recovery in case of the destruction of buildings, any other than the actual value of the building at the time of loss. If, after the prima facie showing made by proof of the amount of insurance, the company shall offer evidence to show the actual value to be less, then the ever defense the evidence establishes. Warschawsky v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 67 N. W., 237.

Good faith requires that upon receipt of proofs of loss, if the company is not satisfied therewith, it should specify its objections thereto, to the end that the proofs may be perfected if possible, and if the company fails to specify the objections at a time when they might be remedied it should not afterward be heard to urge them. Dyer v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 103-524.

The action of the company in asking for an arbitration to determine the amount to be paid is a waiver of defects in the proofs or notice of loss known to the company before the arbitration took place. Dee & Sons Co. v. Key City F. Ins. Co., 104-167.

Notwithstanding a provision in the policy that none of its terms or conditions can be waived by any person except in writing by the secretary of the company, and that no agent has any authority to waive or modify any printed conditions of the policy, an adjusting agent having power to determine what proofs are satisfactory may waive those proofs which are regarded unimportant, although certain specified proofs are required by the policy. Brock v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 106-30.

Failure to object to the proofs of loss because not accompanied with affidavit, as required, amounts to a waiver of objection on this ground. Pringle v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 107-742.

Where the company refuses payment on the ground that the policy has been suspended in consequence of failure to pay an installment of premium, waiver of proofs of loss may be inferred. Pray v. Life Indemnity & Security Co., 104-114; Smith v. Continental Ins. Co., 108-382.

Unqualified refusal to pay constitutes a waiver on the part of the insurance company of proofs of death, where something purporting to be proofs of death has been received by the company, and not objected to. Stephenson v. Bankers Life Assn., 108-637.

An agent having power to adjust a loss has authority to waive formal proofs of loss. Lake v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 110-473.

Where the adjuster requires the procurement of duplicate invoices, which are prepared at considerable expense, the company cannot afterwards object that the proofs of loss are not sufficient. If the conduct of the company is such as to induce the insured to rest, in good faith, under the well founded belief of strict compliance, and that the conditions will not be insisted on, it cannot afterwards set up non-performance of such conditions as a bar to recovery. Ibid.; Corson v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 113-641.

The promise to the company to pay is as effective as the waiver of proofs, as a denial of liability and the promise of settlement is inconsistent with insistence on strict compliance with the conditions of the contract. Lake v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 110-473.

Proofs of loss furnished to the company are only admissible in evidence in the first instance to establish the fact that they were so furnished. If a schedule attached to such proofs is referred to by a witness as furnishing a correct statement of the items of property destroyed and the value thereof, it may be introduced in evidence in connection with such testimony, but the two purposes should be kept distinct. Names v. Union Ins. Co., 104-612.

Under previous statutory provisions, held that proofs of death in a particular case were not sufficient. Stephenson v. Bankers' Life Assn., 108-637.

Proofs of loss in a particular case which did not give an account of the loss nor state how the fire originated nor state the actual cash value of the property destroyed were held not to constitute such proofs of loss as were required by the statute or by the terms of the policy. Brock v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 64 N. W., 685.

While it may be sufficient in a suit on a policy to allege in general the performance of the conditions of such policy (see §§ 3626, 3628) and the failure to perform any particular condition must then be specifically plaintiff sets out specifically the facts of the loss, and the defendant denies in general the allegations of the plaintiff. The sufficiency of the proofs is raised by the defendant.

The court held that, if loss should occur, the plaintiff was bound to give immediate notice of the fact, and that the proofs of loss under oath should be prepared within the time or in the manner specified on the policy. The petition should be filed within the time or in the manner specified on the policy. The petition should be filed within the time or in the manner specified on the policy. Id. 75-544.

The company informed the assured that the loss had not been shown that such agent was not the defendant in the adjustment of the loss. The agent that the loss would be adjusted on the basis of proofs of loss. Ibid.

The court held that the petition did not state the claim required by the policy. The claim required by the policy was that it was sufficient ground for the claim.

The court held that the notice of loss was given within the time, although the policy required that the notice be given not later than the time of the loss. The notice was given not later than the time of the loss. The notice was given not later than the time of the loss. The notice was given not later than the time of the loss.

The court held that the plaintiff was not required to establish the loss by the time of the trial. The plaintiff was not required to establish the loss by the time of the trial. The plaintiff was not required to establish the loss by the time of the trial. The plaintiff was not required to establish the loss by the time of the trial.

The notice and affidavit required by this section are solely for the benefit of the insurer; and if, without objection to the sufficiency thereof, the company advises insured that it will proceed to settle the loss, it thereby waives any objection on account of defects in such proofs. Harris v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 85-238.

Where insured stated by letter to the company that he had no knowledge of the particulars of the fire and its origin, but did not comply with the requirement as to the proof by affidavit, and the company made no objection on that ground, held, that it thereby waived its right to further proof. Green v. Des Moines F. Ins. Co., 84-135.

It is not necessary that the notice and affidavit shall be attached together and delivered at the same time, but it is sufficient that they shall be both in the hands of the company within the time prescribed for giving notice. Russell v. Fidelity F. Ins. Co., 84-93.

As to whether a stipulation in the policy requiring an appraisal as a condition precedent to the bringing of an action thereunder would be valid, in view of the statute, quære. Zalesky v. Home Ins. Co., 71 N. W., 566.

Place of contract. The place where an agreement was finally consummated is the place of the contract, and unless it be shown that it was the intention of the parties that it should be performed at some other place, it will ordinarily be governed by the law of the place of execution. Born v. Home Ins. Co., 94 N. W., 849.

Property insured—title to. Where an insurance agent who took an application for a policy had full knowledge of the exact condition of applicant's title, the company was bound thereby. Ibid.

Insurance contract. Where a proposal for insurance contained in an application therefor was accepted by an insurance company, there was a valid contract of insurance, though no policy was issued. Herring v. American Ins. Co., 99 N. W., 130.

Railway—liability for fire. Where a railway company, by the operation of its trains, destroys by fire insured property situated on its right of way, the liability of the railway company to the assured is primary and that of the insurance company is secondary. Kennedy Bros. v. Iowa State Ins. Co., 119 Iowa, 29.

Waiver of right. Where the assured has contracted away the right of the insurance company to subrogation without its knowledge, he cannot recover in case of loss upon the policy. Ibid.

Sec. 1742-a. Proofs of loss.

The provisions of the policy relating to proofs of loss are superseded by the statutory provisions so far as they are inconsistent American Cereal Co. v. Western Assur. Co., 148 Fed., 77.

Sec. 1743. Conditions.

This provision has no application to the failure of the insured to comply with a condition precedent to the taking effect of the policy. Banco De Sonora v. Bankers' Mut. Casualty Co., 124-576.

A breach of warranty or condition constitutes, generally speaking, no defense, if it appears that such breach did not occasion or contribute to the loss; but the defense based on change in use or occupancy is good if such change makes the risk in fact more hazardous. Krell v. Chickasaw Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 127-748.

The burden is on the insured suing on the policy to show that change in use or occupancy in violation of the provisions of the policy did not contribute to the loss. Ibid.

The question whether a change in occupancy without consent increases the risk is for the jury. Nicholas v. Iowa Merch. Mut. Ins. Co., 125-262.

The fact that the furniture in a dwelling house is insured after taking a policy on the house itself, does not in the absence of fraud or over-insurance constitute an increase of hazard as to the building. Ibid.

Breach of an agreement to keep a set of books in an iron safe will not defeat recovery for a loss under the policy unless it is pleaded and proven that such breach contributed to the loss. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126-565.

A provision in the policy that the removal of the property shall be deemed an increase of the risk as a matter of law is void in view of the statutory provision that the breach of the condition as to removal shall not affect the validity of the policy unless it increases the risk. The burden is on the insured to show that the removal, in violation of the terms of the policy, did not cause or contribute to the loss, but the burden is on the company to show, as a matter of defense, that it increased the risk. Adams v. Atlas Mut. Ins. Co., 112 N. W., 651.

This section does not apply to forfeitures accrued under policies previously issued. Elliott v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 114-153.

Sec. 1744. Notice and proof of loss—time of bringing action—provisions not affected by contract.

Proofs of loss. The statutory requirement as to notice and proofs of loss is all that can be made essential by the contract. A notice and affidavit are sufficient to constitute the proof required. The sufficiency of the document is not dependent on the intent, but on the contents. Parks v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 106-402.

This statute concerning proofs of loss supersedes the provisions of a policy of insurance with relation to the same matter. Washburn-Halligan Coffee Co. v. Merchants' Fire Ins. Co., 110-423.

Stipulations in a policy that no officer or agent shall have power to waive any provision or condition of the policy, except such as by the terms of the policy may be subject of agreement endorsed thereon or added thereto, do not prevent waiver of proofs of loss by an officer or agent having general authority to do so. Such a stipulation relates to the conditions and provisions of the policy and not to their performance. Ibid., and Lake v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 110-473.

The provisions of 18 G. A., chap. 211, sec. 3, relating to proofs of loss, as originally enacted, held applicable to mutual benefit associations as well as fire insurance companies. Parsons v. A. O. U. W., 108-6.

Waiver. Good faith requires that upon receipt of proofs of loss, if the company is not satisfied therewith, it should specify its objections thereto, to the end that the proofs may be perfected if possible, and if the company fails to specify the objections at a time when they might be remedied it should not afterwards be heard to urge them. Dyer v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 103-524.

The action of the company in asking for an arbitration to determine the amount to be paid is a waiver of defects in the proofs or notice of loss known to the company before the arbitration took place. Dee & Sons Co. v. Key City F. Ins. Co., 104-167.

Notwithstanding a provision in the policy that none of its terms or conditions can be waived by any person except in writing by the secretary of the company, and that no agent has any authority to waive or modify any printed conditions of the policy, an adjusting agent having power to determine what proofs are satisfactory may waive those proofs which are regarded unimportant, although certain specified proofs are required by the policy. Brock v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 106-30.

Failure to object to the proofs of loss because not accompanied with affidavit, as required, amounts to a waiver of objection on this ground. Pringle v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 107-742.

Where the company refuses payment on the ground that the policy has been suspended in consequence of failure to pay an installment of premium, waiver of proofs of loss may be inferred. Pray v. Life Indemnity & Security Co., 104-114; Smith v. Continental Ins. Co., 108-382.

Unqualified refusal to pay constitutes a waiver on the part of the insurance company of proofs of death, where something purporting to be proofs of death has been received by the company and not objected to. Stephenson v. Bankers' Life Assn., 108-637.

The promise to the company to pay is as effective as the waiver of proofs, as a denial of liability and the promise of settlement is inconsistent with insistence on strict compliance with the conditions of the contract. Lake v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 110-473.

Telegrams from insured advising the company of the loss and giving it all information which the insured could be supposed to have may constitute sufficient proof of the loss and by failing to object for want of an affidavit to such proofs, the company waives the requirement. Nicholas v. Iowa Merch. Mut. Ins. Co., 125-262.

An agent having power to adjust a loss has authority to waive formal proofs of loss. Lake v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 110-473.

Where the adjuster requires the procurement of duplicate invoices, which are prepared at considerable expense, the company cannot afterwards object that the proofs of loss are not sufficient. If the conduct of the company is such as to induce the insured to rest, in good faith, under the well founded belief of strict compliance, and that the conditions will not be insisted on, it cannot afterwards set up non-performance of such conditions as a bar to recovery. Ibid. Corson v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 113-641.

Time for bringing action: Where action is prematurely brought because of failure of insured to demand an appraisal he cannot cure the defect in his proceeding by subsequently demanding such appraisal and setting out the fact in the supplemental petition. Zalesky v. Home Ins. Co., 102-613.

The limitation contained in this section as to the time for bringing the action pertains to the remedy, and cannot be controlled by stipulations in the policy of insurance. Vore v. Hawkeye Ins. Co., 76-548; Wilhelmi v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 86-326; Worley v. State Ins. Co., 91-150.

These provisions as to the time when action may be brought for the loss, are applicable to actions for loss of goods as well as for loss by reason of damages to the realty. Wilhelmi v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 86-326.

Action cannot be brought before the expiration of the time fixed, even on the refusal of the company to pay. Quinn v. Capital Ins. Co., 71-615; Finster v. Merchants' & Bankers' Ins. Co., 65 N. W., 1004.

Making proofs and giving notice within the prescribed time constitute conditions precedent to the right of action. Ruthven v. American F. Ins. Co., 92-316.

The requirement of the statute as to the time within which an action on the policy may not be brought cannot be waived and a suit within the prescribed period is premature. Blood v. Hawkeye Ins. Co., 69 N. W., 1141.

The effect of this provision as to the time when action may not be brought is to fix the time when the loss becomes due and payable. It does not affect the maturity of the contract, but is a legislative prohibition of the action before the time specified, and if action is brought before the expiration thereof it is prematurely brought and must fail. The objection may be raised by motion in arrest of judgment, without being pleaded as a defense. Taylor v. Merchants' & Bankers' Ins. Co., 83-402.

Where an amended petition properly setting out the cause of action, was filed before the expiration of the time for bringing action and demurred to, held, that the company had sufficient notice of the amendment so that the cause of action set up therein must be deemed to have been brought within the proper time. Jamison v. State Ins. Co., 85-229.

This section with reference to time after which action may be brought is applicable to life insurance. Christie v. Life Indemnity, etc., Co., 82-360.

Therefore held, that an action commenced on a certificate in a benefit company within sixty days after presenting notice of loss was prematurely brought and would be abated. Ibid.

Also held, that these provisions were not unconstitutional on the ground that the subject matter was not expressed in the title or that the act embraced more than one subject, or that it was not of uniform operation. Ibid.

If defendant claims that by reason of the proofs of loss not being sufficient the action is prematurely brought, he should set that out in a distinct division of his answer and not in connection with the defense that the defendant cannot recover by reason of defective proofs. McComb v. Council Bluffs, Ins. Co., 83-247.

The fact that a suit had been prematurely brought and is subsequently dismissed on that ground, does not entitle the plaintiff to institute another suit after the time limited statutory provision as to the time in which action may be brought. Vore v. Hawkeye Ins. Co., 76-548.

The fact that another action on the policy would be barred by reason of limitations in the policy as to time of bringing action will not estop the company from insisting that an action commenced within the prescribed period is prematurely brought, and that plaintiff cannot recover therein. Ibid.

The person who thus maintains an action prematurely brought is negligent, within the provisions of § 3455. Wilhelmi v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 68 N. W., 782.

Where an action was brought in proper time upon a policy of insurance, but subsequently, on discovery that the property was misdescribed, such action was dismissed and an action in equity to reform the policy and recovery thereunder was commenced within a reasonable time, held, that such second action would not be barred under the provisions of the policy with reference to time for bringing action thereon. Jacobs v. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co., 86-145.

The objection that the suit was prematurely brought may be raised by motion in arrest of judgment and is not waived by failure to interpose it earlier in the progress of the case. Woodcock v. Hawkeye Ins. Co., 66 N. W., 764.

A provision in the policy for arbitration in case of disagreement as to the amount of loss does not make an arbitration a condition precedent to the bringing of an action. Lesure Lumber Co. v. Mutual F. Ins. Co., 70 N. W., 761.

But as to whether appraisal may be made an absolute condition to the right of action, quaere. Zalesky v. Home Ins. Co., 71 N. W., 566.

Where the court acquired jurisdiction of the action only by appearance of the defendant, held, that the action was to be deemed commenced only when defendant appeared. Lesure Lumber Co. v. Mutual F. Ins. Co., 70 N. W., 761.

The notice of proofs of loss herein contemplated include the affidavits showing the facts in regard to the loss which must accompany such notice and proofs and mere notice is not sufficient to determine the commencement of the period within which suit cannot be brought. Wilhelmi v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 86-326.

Where a petition in an action on a policy of fire insurance stated that the loss occurred "on or about April 14, 1886," and that notice and proofs of loss were given "on or about June 19, 1886," held, that the petition did not show that more than sixty days had intervened between the loss and the notice and proof thereof. District Tp. v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 75-647.

The time of limitation fixed by the policy is not extended where proofs are neither furnished nor waived. Cornett v. Phenix Ins. Co., 67-388.

The statutory requirement as to notice and proofs of loss is all that can be made essential by the contract. A notice and affidavit are sufficient to constitute the proof required. The sufficiency of the document is not dependent on the intent but on the contents. Parks v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 106-402.

The defense that action on a policy is not brought within the statutory period specified in the contract is one which must be affirmatively introduced, otherwise it will be deemed waived. Miller Brewing Co. v. Capital Ins. Co., 111-590.

The provision of this section as to time of bringing suit held applicable to a loss occurring prior to the taking effect of the Code, when the statute provided that suit should not be brought within ninety days. Such a statutory provision relates to the remedy, and is no part of the contract. Jones v. German Ins. Co., 110-75.

Where the policy limited the time of bringing action to six months next after the fire, held, that the six months commenced to run, not from the time of the fire, but from the time when the loss became payable, that is, sixty days after the notice and proof of loss were furnished. Read v. State Ins. Co., 103-307.

The statutory provision cannot be waived and an action brought in less than ninety days after notice of loss or a waiver of notice and proof is premature. Blood v. Hawkeye Ins. Co., 103-728.

Prior to the adoption of this section it was lawful for the parties to create a contract limitation which would be binding on the courts, and under this section the parties may contract as before, provided the limitation fixed by them is not less than one year. Farmers' Co-op. Creamery Co. v. Iowa State Ins. Co., 112-608.

The change in the statute is not applicable to contract limitations under a policy executed before the change in the statute, and which were valid when made. Ibid.

Where action is prematurely brought because of failure of insured to demand an appraisal he cannot cure the defect in his proceeding by subsequently demanding such appraisal and setting out the fact in the supplemental petition. Zalesky v. Home Ins. Co., 102-613.

Although in the second action it is claimed that the first action was not prematurely brought, this will not sustain the second action brought after the period of limitation under the policy has expired. Wilhelmi v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 103-532.

Where the first action for a loss under a policy was prematurely brought and subsequently another action was brought after the time limited in the policy for bringing action, held, that the second action was not to be deemed a continuation of the first action under the provisions of Code § 3455. Harrison v. Hartford F. Ins. Co., 67 Fed., 298.

The provisions of 18 G. A., chap. 211, as to the time of bringing action, were not applicable to associations organized under § 1160 of the Code of '73, but associations collecting premiums instead of assessments from members were not properly organized under that section, and therefore were subject to the provisions of said act of 18 G. A. Bradford v. Mutual Ins. Co., 112-495.

Sec. 1745. Forms of policies.

Policies—construction of. The language of the policy of insurance is to be given its ordinary and popular signification rather than its technical meaning, and that, when capable of two constructions, it is to be given that which is most favorable to the insured. Vorse v. The Jersey Plate Glass Ins. Co., 119 Iowa, 555.

The provisions of a policy for cancellation by the insured should not be construed as requiring repayment of premiums by the company before such cancellation can become effective. Parsons v. Northwestern Nat. Ins. Co., 133-532.

Reduction of amount of insurance. An insurance company cannot reduce the amount of a policy issued to assured by merely writing him a letter stating that it was obliged to reduce its risk from $1,250 to $500, and enclosing a slip to that effect, with a request that it be attached to the policy, without proof that after the receipt of such letter the insured acquiesced in such reduction. McLean v. American Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 98 N. W., 146.

Sec. 1746. Other insurance—prorating.

A stipulation to include a void policy in determining the pro rata liability of the company cannot be enforced, and the fact that the company issuing the void policy may have treated it as valid, cannot affect the liability of the company issuing a subsequent policy. Gurnett v. Atlas Mut. Ins. Co., 124-547.

Provision for prorating with invalid insurance held unenforceable. A stipulation in a fire insurance policy, in so far as it undertook to include invalid insurance in the matter of prorating, was unenforceable, though a company which had issued invalid insurance regarded its policy as valid, or paid something on the loss to avoid litigation. Gurnett v. Atlas Mut. Ins. Co., 100 N. W., 542.

Sec. 1747. Doing business without compliance.

This does not prevent the officers of a company which has not complied with the law from reinsuring their risks in another company and transferring to such company the premium notes received therefor. Davenport F. Ins. Co. v. Moore, 50-619.

Sec. 1749. Advertisements—soliciting agents.

An agent instructed to procure insurance is liable to his principal for any loss resulting from procuring insurance in a company not authorized to do business in the state. Hartman v. Hollowell, 126-643.

Sec. 1750. Who deemed agent.

A soliciting agent with power to take and forward applications and receive money to be paid when the insurance is effected, does not have authority to bind the company by declarations as to the validity of the contract of insurance or as to the rights and liabilities of the company, when such declarations are not made while discharging his duties as agent in the transaction in question. Schoep v. Bankers' Alliance Ins. Co., 104-354.

An adjusting agent with authority to ascertain and settle losses has of necessity power to determine what proofs are satisfactory and to waive those which are regarded as unimportant. Brock v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 106-30.

Section applied. McMaster v. New York L. Ins. Co., 78 Fed., 33; s. c. 90 Fed., 40; s. c. 99 Fed., 856.

An agent having the power to transact all the business within the apparent scope or usual extent of his employment in issuing policies may waive the conditions of a policy as to incumbrances, notwithstanding a provision in the policy denying such authority to the agent. Liquid Carbonic Acid Mfg. Co. v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 126-225.

Section applied. McMaster v. New York L. Ins. Co., 78 Fed., 33; s. c. 90 Fed., 40; s. c. 99 Fed., 856.

One soliciting insurance and taking applications therefor is the agent of the company issuing the policy, without regard to any provisions found in the policy. Continental L. Ins. Co. v. Chamberlain, 132 U. S., 304.

This provision is applicable to life insurance companies. Ibid.

It is a matter of general knowledge that the soliciting agent as a rule prepares the application for the owner, and what he does in that respect is within his powers, and binds his principal. Jamison v. State Ins. Co., 85-229.

An insurance company is chargeable with knowledge of facts made known to its agent at the time of taking the application, and an instruction requiring more proof of the agent's authority than was necessary, held not prejudicial to defendant, although erroneous. Key v. Des Moines Ins. Co., 77-174.

Under these provisions, held, that the agent of one company, who, by authority of his customer, applied to an agent of another company authorized to issue policies, for insurance on the property of his customer, was the agent for the company issuing the policy, and a mistake as between him and the agent issuing the policy was chargeable to the company, and not to the person for whose benefit the policy was issued. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co. v. Shaver, 76-282.

If the laws of the state make the agent soliciting or negotiating insurance the agent of the company issuing the policy no condition in the policy in terms making such agent the agent of the assured only, will be valid. Fred Miller Brewing Co. v. Council Bluffs Ins. Co., 63 N. W., 365.

Where an insurance agent in Wisconsin negotiated for insurance on property in that state through an insurance agent in another state without designating the company in which the insurance should be taken and the second agent placed the insurance in a foreign company, held, that the first agent became, under the laws of Wisconsin, the agent of the company in which the insurance was placed in such sense that notice of the suit against the company might be served upon such agent so as to give the Wisconsin courts jurisdiction of such suit. Ibid.

Sec. 1754. Combinations.

The statutory prohibition of combinations between fire insurance companies in relation to the rates of commissions or the manner of transacting business is not in violation of the state constitution prohibiting the granting of special privileges and immunities, and requiring general laws to be uniform in operation. But so far as such provisions make it unlawful for two or more companies to enter into any agreement as to the amount of commissions to be allowed agents, they are invalid as depriving the companies of the liberty of contract, secured by the federal constitution. Greenwich Ins. Co. v. Carroll, 125 Fed., 121. (As to the second point this case is reversed. Carroll v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 199 U. S., 401.)

CHAPTER 5.

MUTUAL FIRE, TORNADO AND HAILSTORM ASSESSMENT INSURANCE ASSOCIATIONS.

Sec. 1759-a. For what purposes.

A mutual fire insurance company cannot issue a policy to one not a member nor for a stated and definite amount of insurance nor for a stipulated premium. One who insures his property in a mutual company in a stated amount for a specific premium does not become a member. In re Assignment Mutual Guaranty F. Ins. Co., 107-143.

One who has accepted such a policy which by the statute the company is not allowed to issue cannot recover therein. Ibid.

Members of the company are not individually liable under such a policy. Ibid.

An association organized under the provision of § 1160 of the Code of 1898 could not collect money from a member by way of premium. Bradford v. Mutual F. Ins. Co., 112-495.

An association collecting premiums from its members, instead of assessments, was not under that section exempt from the operation of chap. 211, acts of 18 G. A., relating to time of bringing action. Ibid.

The creation of a guaranty fund held not to deprive the corporation of the character of a mutual company. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

The requirements of Code, § 1741, as to setting out copy of application in connection with the policy are applicable to mutual companies. Corson v. Iowa Mut. Fire Ins. Assn., 115-485.

Although in general a money judgment cannot be rendered against an assessment company, yet if the company has issued a policy in which it agrees to pay a fixed sum in case of loss, such action may be maintained. Byrnes v. American Mut. F. Ins. Co., 114-738.

Under § 1160 of Code of '73, mutual companies were contemplated which should not be subject to other provisions of the general chapter on insurance. Corey v. Sherman, 64 N. W., 828.

Where the articles of incorporation showed that the company was organized to do a mutual insurance business and insure only the property of its members, held, that the articles contained no authority to insure the property of any one not a member, and that the issuance of policies of insurance on the stock plan was invalid. Ibid.

Even though the relation between such mutual association and a member thereof is a personal one, not passing to the legal representative, yet the association may ratify and confirm it in the hands of the personal representative of the deceased member, and will be held to do so if it makes assessments of such personal representative as a member. Harl v. Pottawattamie County Mut. F. Ins. Co., 74-39.

Companies organized to do business on the mutual plan cannot issue policies of insurance on the stock plan (§ 1690), and the members of a mutual company are therefore not liable for the payment of losses under such policies. Corey v. Sherman, 64 N. W., 828.

Where it is not required by the articles and by-laws, notice of assessment need not be given before the assessment is made. Ibid.

The members of a mutual insurance company are presumed to have knowledge of its articles of incorporation and by-laws, and general misstatements as to the solvency of the company and its method of doing business will not constitute such fraud as to relieve the members from their obligation to pay assessments on their deposit notes. Ibid.

Sec. 1759-b. County and state associations.

The distinction between state mutual and county mutual associations or companies may be the basis of distinction in the matter of taxation. Iowa Mut. Tornado Assn. v. Gilbertson, 129-653.

The fact that mutual insurance associations are authorized to make assessments to meet expenses indicates that they are associations for pecuniary profit under the incorporation laws. Iowa Mut. Tornado Assn. v. Gilbertson, 129-658.

Proof of loss—waiver of. Where an insurance company was notified of a loss to a corn crop by a hailstorm, and, in response, sent an adjuster, who took the insured's proposition of settlement, and promised to report the company's action thereon, and on renewed demands it promised to send its adjuster again for further inspection, but failed to do so, and did not notify the insured of the acceptance or rejection of his proposition, and did not demand proof of the loss before the claim matured, it waived its right to demand such proof. Condon v. Des Moines Mut. Hail Ins. Assn., 94 N. W., 477.

Mutual hail policy—losses. In an action on a mutual hail policy which provides full loss indemnity from a general fund to be provided by assessment of members, except in case the total losses exceed such amount so collected, then losses to be paid pro rata, the burden of proof is on the company to show insufficient funds to pay losses in full, and in the absence of such showing a judgment for full amount of loss will stand. Delle v. State Mut. Hail, 119 Iowa, 173.

Provisions in articles and by-laws. The articles of incorporation and by-laws in mutual associations become a part of the contract with each member. Farmers' Mut. Hail Ins. Assn. v. Slattery, 115 Iowa, 410.

Where the by-laws of a mutual hail insurance association at the time of issuance of insured's policy made no provision for the suspension of policies for the failure to meet assessments, insured was not bound by subsequent amendment thereof providing for such suspension though he agreed to be governed by the articles of incorporation and by-laws. Ibid.

CHAPTER 6.

OF LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Life insurance—place of contract. A policy of life insurance issued to a resident of Iowa, but providing that the premiums were to be paid at the insurer's office in New York, where payment of the insurance was also to be made, and signed at the insurer's home office in New York City, is a New York contract, governed by the laws of that state, though to take effect on delivery to the assured, in the absence of proof of the place of actual delivery. Summitt v. U. S. Life Ins. Co., 99 N. W., 563.

Sec. 1773. Annual statement.

This section recognizes the existence of a debt from the company to its policy-holders. Equitable L. Ins. Co. v. Board of Equalization, 74-178.

Sec. 1777. Examination by auditor—receiver.

In an action to close the business of a corporation for failure to comply with the provisions of chapter 5, title IX, of the Code of '73, held, that it must be assumed that the corporation was duly organized. State ex rel. v. Iowa Mut. Aid Assn., 59-125.

Sec. 1768. On level premium plan.

It is not unlawful for an insurance company to discriminate between policy-holders and those who are not policy-holders in the loaning of money, nor for it to agree that one who takes insurance shall have a loan thereon. Key v. National Life Ins. Co., 107-446.

The provisions of this section as to "any contract of insurance agreement other than as plainly expressed in the policy issued" is to be limited in its application by the title of the act in which it was first enacted, and by the general provisions of the section, and is therefore applicable only to cases of discrimination. Kelley v. Mutual L. Ins. Co., 109 Fed., 56.

The provision as to contracts "plainly expressed in the policy issued" includes in the term "policy" the provision of the application endorsed thereon, in accordance with Code § 1819. Mutual L. Ins. Co. v. Kelly, 114 Fed., 268.

The amendment of this section made by 27 G. A., chap. 46, held not applicable where the policy had been issued and the death had occurred prior to the taking effect of the amendment. Beverly v. Northern L. Assn., 112-730.

Sec. 1782. Discrimination.

It is not unlawful for an insurance company to discriminate between policy-holders and those who are not policy-holders in the loaning of money, nor for it to agree that one who takes insurance shall have a loan thereon. Key v. National Life Ins. Co., 107-446.

The provisions of this section as to "any contract of insurance agreement other than as plainly expressed in the policy issued" is to be limited in its application by the title of the act in which it was first enacted, and by the general provisions of the section, and is therefore applicable only to cases of discrimination. Kelley v. Mutual L. Ins. Co., 109 Fed., 56.

The provision as to contracts "plainly expressed in the policy issued" includes in the term "policy" the provision of the application endorsed thereon, in accordance with Code § 1819. Mutual L. Ins. Co. v. Kelly, 114 Fed., 268.

The amendment of this section made by 27 G. A., chap. 46, held not applicable where the policy had been issued and the death had occurred prior to the taking effect of the amendment. Beverly v. Northern L. Assn., 112-730.

CHAPTER 7.

OF STIPULATED PREMIUM AND ASSESSMENT LIFE INSURANCE ASSOCIATIONS.

Sec. 1784. Defined.

Members of a mutual benefit association are bound to take notice of and be governed by its by-laws. Fitzgerald v. Metropolitan Acc. Assn., 106-457.

The statutory provisions with reference to mutual benefit associations, held to be applicable to an association organized under such provisions, although it had not fully complied therewith. Crocker v. Hugin, 103-243.

Life insurance companies, except as otherwise specially provided, are incorporated under the general provisions as to the formation of corporations. Krause v. Modern Woodmen, 133-199.

Accident death—blood poisoning. Where the deceased accidentally received a wound on his finger, causing inflammation, which developed into blood poisoning, resulting in his death, such death resulted from a disease which followed as a natural consequence of the physical injury, and was an accidental death within a policy requiring that death must result solely from accidental injuries. Delaney v. Modern Acc. Club, 97 N. W., 91.

Under the constitution of the association known as the Ancient Order of United Workmen, held, that such association, notwithstanding its fraternal character, was in effect a mutual insurance company, and that the supreme lodge of that corporation, being incorporated under the laws of Kentucky, was not authorized to exercise any powers or do business in Iowa without compliance with the laws of Iowa with reference to life insurance companies. State ex rel. v. Miller, 66-26.

Where one of the objects of an association is to pay to the beneficiaries a sum of money upon the death of a member which is to be raised by assessments upon other members it is to be deemed an insurance company. Grimes v. Northwestern Legion of Honor, 64 N. W., 806.

Former provisions of this character, held applicable to a fraternal society such as the Ancient Order of United Workmen, having life insurance and insurance against sickness and disability as its main object. State ex rel. v. Nichols, 78-747.

Mutual aid associations organized to furnish financial aid and benefits to the families of deceased members on the payment of membership fees, dues and assessments, held, not to be within the former provisions as to life insurance companies. State ex rel. v. Iowa Mut. Aid Assn., 59-125. And see § 1798.

A railroad relief association organized by the railroad company for the benefit of employees who participate therein is not a life insurance company. Maine v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 70 N. W., 630.

An employe, member of such association who has accepted the benefits provided for by his contract of membership is bound by the terms of such contract. Ibid.

Sec. 1785. Articles of incorporation.

The president and the board of directors of a mutual life association are both governed by the association's articles of incorporation and the statutes of the state defining and limiting their respective duties and powers. Sherman v. Harbin et al., 100 N. W., 629.

Money judgment against assessment life associations. Where the articles of incorporation of a mutual benefit life insurance association provide that the beneficiaries shall be entitled to a sum equal to what would be realized from an assessment upon all members, as shown by the books, at the time of death, but in no case shall the sum exceed the amount stated in the certificate, and also provide for a mortuary fund, to be raised by assessments, from which death losses shall be paid, and the certificate itself stipulates that the beneficiaries shall receive a definite sum, the amount due to be provided for by assessment, etc., as provided for in the articles of incorporation, the beneficiary is entitled to a money judgment, and not merely a mandatory order to make and pay over the proceeds of an assessment. Thornburg v. Farmers' Life Association, 98 N. W. 105.

The burden is on the defendant association to show that an assessment at the time of the member's death would not have yielded the full amount named in the certificate. Ibid.

Sec. 1786. Name.

The provisions of Code § 1689 as to including the word "mutual" in the name of a mutual company has no application to associations organized under this chapter. Moore v. Union Frat. Acc. Assn., 103-424.

The action of the auditor in determining the name under which the association may do business is not conclusive as to another association claiming a prior right to the use of the same or a similar name. Grand Lodge v. Graham, 65 N. W., 837.

Therefore held, that plaintiff, an association of the character contemplated in this section and authorized to do business under the name of the Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of Iowa, could not enjoin an unincorporated society or voluntary association from using the name, it appearing that defendant had a prior right to the use of such name. Ibid.

Sec. 1787. Conditions for commencing business.

Under the bond given by the president of an assessment life insurance company, the sureties are not liable to a receiver of the company for moneys wrongfully paid by him to one member which were collected for the benefit of another who has in turn been satisfied from funds subsequently collected or for money misappropriated after the expiration of the bond. Sherman v. Harbin, 124-643.

Any act of the president of the association contrary to his duty under its articles of incorporation, even though directed or acquiesced in by the board of directors, constitutes a breach of duty involving liability of the surety on his official bond if it results in loss to the association. Sherman v. Harbin, 125 174.

A new bond executed on re-election for another year is a new and independent undertaking and not a continuance of the bond for the previous year. Ibid.

Auditing the books of the company being no part of the duty of the president, he is not liable under his official bond for not discovering errors overlooked by the auditing committee. Ibid.

The act of the president in diverting the beneficiary fund to the payment of expenses in resisting claims renders him liable on his bond. Ibid.

Fidelity bonds of the president of a mutual life association organized under chapter 65, acts of the Twenty-first General Assembly, though running to the association, may be enforced by any one for whose benefit they were executed. Sherman v. Harbin et al., 100 N. W., 622.

Sec. 1788. Assessments.

While in the enforcement of a claim for a death loss against a mutual benefit association resort must be had in the first place to an action in mandamus to compel a levy of an assessment, yet, where the corporation fails to make the levy at a time when it would be effectual in furnishing the fund for the payment of the claim, and postpones it until long after, when by reason of decrease in the membership in the association it becomes ineffectual, the association may be held liable in damages. Christie v. Iowa L. Ins. Co., 111-177.

In such case interest from the time the money should have been collected and paid over under the terms of the contract may be added. Ibid.

The beneficiaries being entitled to the amount realized on particular assessments under their certificates, the misappropriation of an assessment made for a loss under one certificate to the payment of a loss under a different certificate, does not give rise to an action on the bond of the officer making such appropriation at the suit of the receiver of the company. Sherman v. Harbin, 124-643.

The provisions of section 1788 of the Code, that the articles, by-laws, and notices of assessment of assessment life insurance associations shall state the object to which the money to be collected is to be devoted, and that no part of the proceeds shall be applied to any other purpose, apply only to assessments, and not to dues for contingent expenses or fixed charges, such as an agent's commission charge on policy renewals. Schrimplin v. Farmers' Life Assn., 98 N. W., 613.

Assessments—to what applied. Moneys collected from assessment levied in accordance with the provisions of section 1788 of the Code, should be applied on the particular loss for which the assessment, or a specific proportion thereof, was raised, and that neither the association nor its officers were entitled to direct the same to other liabilities or losses. Sherman v. Harbin et al., 100 N. W., 622.

Where benefit assessments levied by a mutual life association belonged to certain of its beneficiaries, and the association's articles contained other provisions for ordinary expenses and those incident to the protection of the association against unjust claims, the association's officers had no authority to use money received from benefit assessments, made to pay death losses, for the payment of expenses incurred in the litigation of alleged unjust claims. Sherman v. Harbin et al., 100 N. W., 629.

By-laws of mutual benefit associations—effect of. Where the by-laws of an insurance company provided several sources from which death losses might be paid, and it was nowhere indicated that an assessment must necessarily be made for each loss, a by-law providing that a beneficiary should be entitled to a sum of money equal to what would be realized from an assessment from all members in good standing at insured's death, not exceeding the amount of the certificate, did not make the levy of an assessment a condition precedent to insurer's liability. Wood v. Farmers' Life Assn., 95 N. W., 226.

Mutual benefit associations—failure to pay assessments. Where decedent's certificate in a mutual benefit association provided that on decedent's failure to pay stipulated assessments as agreed, the contract should "close and be of no effect," and, prior to the making of a contract between the association and defendant for the reinsurance of all of the association's members in good standing at the time the contract was made, decedent had refused to pay assessments levied, on the ground that they were unjust, he acquired no rights under the association's contract of insurance. Parvin v. Mutual Reserve Life Ins. Co., 100 N. W., 39.

The liability of a member of a mutual benefit company is to be determined by an assessment on the basis of membership at the time of the loss and not at the time an assessment is made by order of court to pay such loss. Collins v. Bankers' Acc. Assn., 64 N. W., 778.

Even though the association has on hand enough money to pay a death loss, it is not proper to render judgment against it for the amount of the loss but only to compel an assessment to pay such loss. Courtney v. United States Masonic Ben. Assn., 53 N. W., 238.

Where provisions are made for canceling certificates upon failure to pay assessments after actual notice, the obligation to give such notice is upon the company and the obligation to pay the assessments does not attach until the notice is given. Ibid.

Therefore, where the certificate holder, at the time notice was sent to him by mail, was not in such condition that he could understand such notice, held, that notice was not effectual. Ibid.

Provisions as to the method of giving notice of assessments for the purpose of fixing a forfeiture, which are provided for at the time of the issuance of the certificate cannot be subsequently changed without the consent of the insured unless there is a stipulation providing that insured shall be bound by such subsequent provisions. Ibid.

Where it was provided that the failure to pay assessments did not work an absolute forfeiture till the expiration of six months, held, that the receipt of intermittent dues during the six months was not a waiver of the default where the member did not, during the six months, take the steps necessary for reinstatement. Leffingwell v. Grand Lodge A. O. U. W., 16-279.

Where the contract was between the subordinate lodge and the member, held, that the member had no right to offset, as against dues, compensation due him under a contract with the grand lodge. Ibid.

Sec. 1789. Insurable age—beneficiary—assignment of policy.

Age: An association is not precluded by the provisions of this section from assuming by consolidation the liability of another association to a member, although at the time of such consolidation the member is over the age when a valid certificate could have been issued. Cathcart v. Equitable Mut. L. Assn., 111-471.

A company whose articles do not prohibit the insurance of persons over the age specified by Code § 1789 cannot by its by-laws render a contract of insurance with a person within the statutory age ultra vires and void. Krause v. Modern Woodmen, 133-199.

Change of beneficiary: The provision as to change of beneficiaries relates to the certificate and not to the fund, and the word "assignment" as here used is equivalent to the word "endorsement." A beneficiary who is substituted by the act of the person on whose life the certificate is issued is not an assignee of the certificate. Shuman v. Supreme K. of H., 110-480.

Where the right to change the beneficiary is specifically provided for in the certificate, and the manner of doing so is pointed out, the method indicated must be adopted and if that method involves the issuance of a new certificate, the endorsement of a certificate without the observance of the formalities required will not give the endorsee a right to the proceeds as against the beneficiaries designated by the certificate itself. Shuman v. A. O. U. W., 110-642.

Where the benefit was made payable to the wife of the deceased, who was disqualified to collect it on account of having feloniously caused the death of her husband, held that her heirs had no interest in the benefit fund, but that the amount payable was held in trust by the association for the estate of the deceased. Schmidt v. Northern Life Assn., 112-41.

The beneficiary named in such a certificate has no property right therein, but only an expectancy. If a beneficiary is designated who does not belong to the class of persons enumerated by statute, the insurance becomes payable to those who would have been entitled to it in the absence of any designation. Ibid.

Where the parties have agreed upon a mode by which a change of beneficiary may be effected, the change can be made in that mode only, unless by subsequent agreement, assented to by the association, a different mode is substituted. Modern Woodmen v. Little, 114-109.

The beneficiary in a fraternal or mutual benefit association has no vested interest, but is subject to provisions as to changing beneficiaries and when the member has done all in his power to effect the change and entitle him to a new certificate in favor of the proposed beneficiary equity will carry out his purpose, although the actual issuance and acceptance of the new certificate were prevented by the death of the member. Wandell v. Mystic Toolers, 130-639.

And it seems that if by action of the local officer the member is misled as to the steps necessary to be taken, the association will be estopped to question the sufficiency of the change. Ibid.

This section applies to foreign as well as domestic companies. Belknap v. Johnston, 114-265.

Where the certificate is a contract of insurance, made in another state, and change of beneficiary is made and completed in that state, according to its laws, it will be valid. Ibid.

The right to change beneficiary existing in such other state at the time the contract was made cannot be affected by subsequent legislation of such state. Ibid.

Assignment: Where it was provided that the certificate should not be assignable in payment of or security for any debt, held, that the assignment thereof as a security was invalid and the creditor acquired no rights thereunder. Crocker v. Hogin, 103-243.

Rights of beneficiary: Until the beneficiary is changed by law, he has an actual, subsisting interest in the policy which will pass to his administrator in case of his death, and as against such beneficiary, or his administrator, suicide on the part of the insured is not a defense in the absence of a provision to that effect in the policy. But fraud, in procuring a policy with the intent to commit suicide, will vitiate the entire contract, and defeat recovery. Parker v. Des Moines Life Assn., 108-117.

Under an ordinary life policy the beneficiary has a vested right which cannot be impaired without his consent. Haerter v. Mohr, 114-636.

In an action against a mutual benefit company by one claiming under a certificate as wife of the insured, the company defending on the ground that insured had a prior wife living, and that plaintiff was not, therefore, entitled to the benefit, has the burden of showing that a prior marriage existed, and had not been dissolved. Parsons v. A. O. U. W., 108-6.

A "relative" for whose benefit a certificate may be taken includes a stepfather, after the death of the wife, on whom the relationship depends. Simcoke v. Grand Lodge A. O. U. W., 84-383.

The provisions that the beneficiary may, by the consent of the society, be changed without the consent of the person who has been such beneficiary, is in accordance with the law previously existing with reference to the effect of such certificates. Brown v. Grand Lodge A. O. U. W., 80-287; Carpenter v. Knapp, 70 N. W., 764.

The provisions of § 1741, requiring the application of the assured to be indorsed on or attached to the policy, applies to all policies and contracts for life insurance, including those of mutual benefit associations issued upon the assessment plan. McConnell v. Iowa Mut. Aid Assn., 79-757;

Grimes v. Northwestern Legion of Honor, 64 N. W., 806. And see now §§ 1819, 1826.

Where it was provided in the certificate of a mutual benefit society that it should be void in case the beneficiary named was not a natural heir of the member taking the certificate, held, that knowledge on the part of the society that the beneficiary named was not an heir of the member taking the certificate without objection on the part of the society, and continuing to collect assessments, and continuing to treat the certificate as valid, constituted a waiver of such condition. (Decided prior to the enactment of these provisions). Lindsey v. Western Mut. Aid. Soc., 84-734.

Also held, that where such certificate was forfeited for non-payment of dues after the taking effect of the statute, but payment was subsequently accepted by the company, and the member was restored, such restoration did not amount to the making of a new contract, but was a waiver of the forfeiture, and the former certificate continued in force. Ibid.

Also held, that statements of the member with reference to good health, on which such restoration was made, were not false in such sense as to render such restoration void. Ibid.

Sec. 1795. Proceedings to control or wind up.

The fact that a mutual benefit association is doing business without complying with the law cannot be taken advantage of in an action against it by another association to restrain the use by defendant of a name common to the two, it appearing that plaintiff has no prior right to the use of such name. Grand Lodge v. Graham, 65 N. W., 837.

Sec. 1797. Distribution of surplus—surrender value.

Since the enactment of this provision a mutual life company has no authority to stipulate in its policies that an assessment shall be made for the purpose of paying an endowment. Dishong v. Iowa Life & Endowment Assn., 92-163.

And where prior to the passage of this statute endowment contracts had been made by such a company, and the risks of such company were afterward reinsured in another mutual company, which issued a different policy, held, that the second company was under no obligation to make an assessment for the payment of such endowment. Ibid.

CHAPTER 8.

PROVISIONS APPLYING TO LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES AND ASSOCIATIONS.

Sec. 1805. Policy exempt from execution.

The execution of an ordinary life policy confers immediately a vested right upon and raises an irrevocable trust in favor of the party named as beneficiary, a right which cannot be impaired without the beneficiary's consent. Haerther v. Mohr, 114-636.

The purpose of this section being to provide that the money derived from life or accident insurance shall enure to the benefit of the widow, exempt from her antecedent debts, it follows that she may invest a part or the whole thereof in property which shall be necessary for the comfort and support of her family, without impairing this right of exemption. The exemption is not limited to the money itself. Cook v. Allee, 119-226.

In the absence of any contract or arrangement, the proceeds of life insurance are not exempt in the hands of the heir from the debts of such heir. O'Melia v. Hoffmeyer, 119-444.

Where a bankrupt holds a policy payable to himself, his heirs or legal representatives, the surrender value thereof will be a part of the assets of his estate in bankruptcy, under the provisions of the federal bankrupt law. In re Lange, 91 Fed., 361; in re Steele, 98 Fed., 78.

The provisions of the bankrupt law as to exemption of policies of life insurance are only applicable to cases where there is no exemption by the state law, but so far as such policies are exempt by the state law such exemption is recognized under the general provisions as to exempt property. Steele v. Buel, 104 Fed., 968.

This section contemplates a case where the policy is payable to deceased, or his or her legal representatives, and not a case where the policy is payable to another person for his use and benefit, in which case it can not be otherwise disposed of by will. McClure v. Johnson, 56-620.

Where the contract of insurance provides the method by which insured may change the beneficiary entitled to the proceeds of the policy, and such method is not pursued, a direction in the will of the assured making such change will be without effect. Stephenson v. Stephenson, 64-534.

Where absolute power is given to a member of a mutual benefit association to designate who the beneficiary shall be, such direction cannot be disregarded, although the articles of incorporation of the association provide that its object shall be to provide for the widows and orphans of deceased members, and the beneficiary designated is not a widow or child of the deceased member. Mitchell v. Grand Lodge, 70-360.

The assured cannot by direction in his will provide for payment of the proceeds of a policy on his life to another beneficiary than the one mentioned in the policy. The contract with the company cannot thus be altered without its consent. Wilmaser v. Continental L. Ins. Co., 66-417.

The assured cannot change the beneficiary by will unless it is so provided in the contract of insurance. Wendt v. Iowa Legion of Honor, 72-682.

Where a decedent left a wife but no children, held, that the proceeds should go to the wife alone, and not be divided among all the distributees of his estate. Rhode v. Bank, 52-375.

The proceeds of life insurance are exempt to heirs generally and not merely to wife and children, to whom they are distributed free from the debts of the deceased. Larrabee v. Palmer, 70 N. W., 100.

The proceeds of the policy when realized by the person entitled thereto, are not exempt from execution for the debts of such person. The exemption exists only as to the debts of the person insured. Smedley v. Felt, 43-607; Murray v. Wells, 53-256.

This section does not exempt the avails of a policy of insurance from the debts of a beneficiary when such beneficiary is a person other than the assured. Murdy v. Skyles, 70 N. W., 714.

Therefore a benefit payable to the member of an association and by him transferred to his wife is not exempt from the debts of the wife. Ibid.

The exemption to the wife as against her own antecedent debts relates only to cases of death of the husband who is the assured. Ibid.

Under a policy of insurance for the use and benefit of the wife of assured, the sum stipulated being payable to said assured or her legal representatives "or if the said assured be not then living the said sum shall be payable to her children or to their children if under age," held, that the wife and the children being dead before the death of insured the proceeds of the policy were payable to the grandchildren and were not subject to the debts of the deceased wife. In re Conrad's Estate, 89-396.

Where a certificate of insurance in a mutual benefit company was made payable to the "legal" heirs of assured, held, that the widow of assured was not within such description, but that the proceeds of such certificate should go to the children of deceased. Phillips v. Carpenter, 79-600; but see now § 3313.

In a particular case held, that the evidence did not show a contract to subject the proceeds of a life policy to the payment of a debt. Herriman v. McKee, 49-185.

Where the proceeds of a policy of life insurance are used to release other property from a claim under which it is held, the property so released becomes subject to the payment of debts. Friedlander v. Mahoney, 31-311.

The proceeds of a life policy are assets of the estate, and only differ from other assets in the manner of their distribution. Kelley v. Mann, 56-625.

Further as to disposition of proceeds as assets of the estate, see § 3313.

Life insurance policy—assignment. A daughter, who is the beneficiary in a policy of insurance on the life of her father, may make a valid assignment of the policy, and the assignee need not have an insurable interest in the life of the insured or that of the beneficiary. Farmers' & Traders' Bank v. Johnson, 118 Iowa, 282.

Sec. 1811. Defenses to actions on policies—intoxication.

This provision has no application to mutual benefit associations. Knapp v. Brotherhood, 128 566.

Sec. 1812. Physician's certificate.

To defeat recovery on account of false statements as to the health of the applicant, the defendant must show, not only that the statements of the applicant were false and fraudulent, but that the examiner was deceived thereby. But the defendant is not estopped by the certificate of the medical examiner from setting up fraud on the part of the applicant in procuring such certificate on which the policy was issued. Weich v. Union Central L. Ins. Co., 108-224.

The purpose of this statutory provision, estopping the company from setting up misrepresentations as to the health of deceased where a medical examiner has passed on the fitness of the applicant, is to prevent recovery being defeated on any policy where the company has, by its agent, examined and passed upon the fitness of the applicant for insurance, and it is quite immaterial what representations have been made, or warranties given. The fraud or deceit referred to in the statute is that of procuring the report or certificate of the physician and not the policy. Weimer v. Economic L. Assn., 108-451.

Unless the examiner is deceived by answers in the application, or in some other way, the company is not entitled to have the condition of health of the insured at the time of the issuance of the policy investigated. In the absence of fraud or deceit practiced on the medical examiner the company is estopped from questioning the truthfulness of the answers made by the insured in the application. Stewart v. Equitable Mut. L. Ins. Assn., 110-528.

Under this section the company is estopped from inquiring into the correctness of answers in the application, in the absence of an allegation that the medical examiner's report was procured through fraud or deceit. The fact that the statements in such application amount to warranties is immaterial. Nelson v. Nederland L. Ins. Co., 110-600.

The provisions of this section evidently relate to procedure, and not to the validity of the contract, and therefore control in an action on a policy issued in another state by a foreign insurance company. Ibid.

Where a physician reports in favor of the application, and it is not proven that such report was secured by fraud practiced upon the physician, the defendant is estopped from denying the truthfulness of the applicant's representations. Brown v. Modern Woodmen, 115-450.

The medical examiner or physician referred to in this section is the person who examines the applicant and determines his condition of health and reports whether he is a proper risk. Peterson v. Des Moines L. Assn., 115-668.

The provisions of this section apply to the person who represents the company in making an examination of applicants as to their physical condition, and not to the action of the medical director of the company in determining whether the risk shall be accepted. Wood v. Farmers' Life Assn., 121-44.

Proof of the falsity of the representations made in an application for life insurance is not alone sufficient to establish that such representations were fraudulently made. Ley v. Metropolitan L. Ins. Co., 120-203.

The provisions with reference to the conclusiveness of a health certificate given by a medical examiner have no application to mutual benefit associations. Smith v. Supreme Lodge, 123-676.

In an action on a fraternal benefit certificate evidence of fraud in the application consisting in false answers as to the conditions of the applicant's health is admissible to defeat recovery. Ibid.

Section applied. Metzradt v. Modern Brotherhood of America, 112-522.

To constitute obtaining a certificate of health, by an applicant for life insurance, by fraud, it is not enough that his answers to the medical examiner be untrue, but he must have known them to be false, and the examiner must have been thereby deceived into issuing the certificate. Welch v. Union Central Life Ins. Co., 117 Iowa, 394.

Unless the examining physician's certificate was procured by fraud, a company whose physician certifies that an applicant is a fit subject for insurance, is estopped from setting up the falsity of assured's warranties as to his health prior to the medical examination. Brown v. Modern Woodmen of America, 115 Iowa, 450.

Section 1812 applied. The provisions of section 1812 of the Code are not applicable to fraternal beneficiary associations organized under the provisions of chapter 9, title IX of the code, since section 1825 of such chapter exempts such associations from the provisions of the laws relating to life insurance companies. Smith v. Supreme Lodge K. & L. of Golden Precept, 99 N. W., 553.

Section applied. Metzradt v. Modern Brotherhood of America, 112-522.

Sec. 1813. Misrepresentation of age.

This provision held applicable to a contract of insurance in the Modern Woodmen, it not appearing that such organization was a fraternal beneficiary society as defined in Code § 1822, and therefore specially exempted from the general statutory provisions relating to life insurance. Krause v. Modern Woodmen, 133-199.

Section applied. Seiverts v. National Benefit Assn., 64 N. W., 671.

In an action in this state on a policy issued in another state it will be presumed in the absence of a showing to the contrary that statutes in the other state contain a similar provision with reference to the age of the assured. Ibid.

Sec. 1819. Copy of application.

Whether the provision that a copy of the application must be attached to or endorsed upon the policy pertains solely to matters of remedy and procedure, and is therefore applicable in an action in this state upon a policy regardless of the place of contract, quaere; but held that the statute of Minnesota under which the policy was executed, though different in terms from the statutory provision in this state, should receive the same construction, and that evidence of fraudulent statement in the application not thus attached or endorsed was inadmissible. Rauen v. Prudential Ins. Co., 129-725.

The provisions of 18 G. A., chap. 211, as to attaching copy of application to policy (now embodied in Code § 1741) held applicable to fraternal societies. Stork v. Supreme Lodge K. of P., 113-724.

Section applied. Mutual L. Ins. Co., v. Kelly, 114 Fed., 268.

As applicable to this section, see notes to Code § 1741.

Sec. 1820. Limitation of action.

The provisions of 18 G. A., chap. 211, § 3, relating to proofs of loss, held applicable to mutual benefit associations, as well as fire insurance companies. Parsons v. A. O. U. W., 108-6.

---

CHAPTER 9.*FRATERNAL BENEFICIARY SOCIETIES, ORDERS OR ASSOCIATIONS*Sec. 1822. Defined.

Unless it appears that an association engaged in the business of insurance is within the definition of fraternal beneficiary societies, it will be presumed to be within the general provisions relating to life insurance companies and associations. Krause v. Modern Woodmen, 133-199.

Sec. 1824. Insurable age—beneficiary.

The designation of a beneficiary in a certificate of fraternal insurance is not affected by the fact that such beneficiary has subsequently ceased to bear the relationship to the member required by the articles of the association with reference to the designation of such beneficiary. White v. Brotherhood of Am. Yeoman, 124-293; Schmidt v. Hauer, 111 N. W., 966.

Relationship by affinity is not created between the blood relatives on either side of the parties to the marriage relation, and a beneficiary is not a relative of the member within the statutory language as to who may be beneficiaries where their relationship is only by affinity through one who is deceased. Smith v. Supreme Tent, 127-115.

Where a beneficiary named is not capable of taking the proceeds under the limitations of the statute as to who may be made beneficiaries, the administrator of the deceased member can recover such proceeds as though no beneficiary had been named. Smith v. Supreme Tent, 127-115.

In an action against a mutual benefit company by one claiming under a certificate as wife of the insured, the company defending on the ground that insured had a prior wife living, and that plaintiff was not, therefore, entitled to the benefit, has the burden of showing that a prior marriage existed, and had not been dissolved. Parsons v. A. O. U. W., 108-6.

As to changing beneficiary see notes to § 1789.

The beneficiary has no right to resort to the tribunal of the association, since she has no vested interests in the certificate until the death of the holder. Finnerty v. Catholic Knights of America, 115 Iowa, 398.

Sec. 1825. Statutes applicable.

The statutes relating to life insurance companies are not applicable to mutual benefit associations except as specifically provided, and therefore held that the provisions of Code § 1812, making the certificate of a medical examiner conclusive on the company as against all statements in the application, are not applicable to such associations. Smith v. Supreme Lodge, 123-676.

The provisions of the general chapter relating to life insurance are not applicable to mutual benefit associations unless incorporated into the chapter relating to such associations. Knapp v. Brotherhood, 128-566.

Sec. 1827. Where suable.

Waiver of Proofs of Loss—What constitutes. When an officers of an assessment insurance company has authority to waive proof of loss, and writes a letter in which he says the claim is invalid by reason of the suspension of the member but makes no objection for failure to make proof of loss, the same is waived. Alexander v. Grand Lodge A. O. U. W., 119 Iowa, 519.

Waiver of fraud. Acceptance of dues. When an assessment company accepts membership dues through its authorized officer, it is estopped from denying the validity of the certificate on any ground which would have justified a refusal of such dues at the time offered, provided the association, through its officer, knew or had notice of such facts as would charge it or its officer with knowledge of the invalidity of the certificate. Ibid.

After-enacted by-laws—agreement to be bound by. Parties to a mutual benefit certificate may agree to be bound by after-enacted by-laws, provided such by-laws are reasonable, and not retroactive. Ross v. Modern Brotherhood of America, 95 N. W., 207.

Sec. 1833. Agents.

Mutual benefit associations are prohibited from employing paid agents, and therefore such an organization cannot after it is formed, ratify the act of a promoter in agreeing that an agent shall have a commission for procuring members for the organization. First National Bank v. Church Federation, 129-268.

Such a contract being expressly forbidden, the association is not estopped by taking advantage of the services of such agent from defending against his claim for compensation. Ibid.

The statute does not, however, prohibit others than the association from employing and paying an agent to procure members, and held that the promoter pretending to act as general superintendent of the organization was liable to the agent employed by him in the name of the association for compensation under the contract. Ibid.

Sec. 1834. Changing beneficiary.

Where the parties have agreed upon a mode by which a change of beneficiary may be effected, the change can be made in that mode only, unless by subsequent agreement, assented to by the association, a different mode is substituted. Modern Woodmen v. Little, 114-109.

Sec. 3499. Against insurance companies.

Under this section an action may be brought before a justice of the peace against an insurance company in another county than that of its residence, notwithstanding the provisions of § 4476, with reference to the place of bringing action in justice's courts. Hunt v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 67-742.

Suit may be brought in the county where the loss occurs. State Ins. Co. v. Granger, 62-272.

A provision in a certificate of mutual benefit insurance by which it is stipulated that action shall not be brought thereon except in a certain county named is not valid. Matt v. Iowa Mut. Aid Assn., 81-135.

An action may be brought against an insurance company in any county in which the loss occurred, although it has no agent on whom service can be made, provided jurisdiction in rem is acquired by publication. Lesure Lumber Co. v. Mutual F. Ins. Co., 70 N. W., 761.

An action against an insurance company may be brought in the county in which the loss occurred, even though the principal place of business of a company is in another county of the state. Pardee v. National Masonic Acc. Assn., 63 N. W., 601.

Mutual benefit associations are to be deemed insurance companies within the provisions of this section. Ibid.

CORPORATIONS

CHAPTER 1.

CORPORATIONS FOR PECUNIARY PROFIT.

Sec. 1607. Who may incorporate.

Under this section any number of people may become incorporated for the transaction of any legal business, including business as a mutual insurance company. Corey v. Sherman, 60 N. W., 232.

Sec. 1609. Powers.

Par. 2. Name: To make notice to a corporation which is named only by the initials of its corporate name sufficient it must appear that at the time such notice was given the corporation was commonly known and customarily referred to by such abbreviations. Chicago, B & Q. R. Co. v. Kelley, 105-106.

Par. 5. Exemption of property: The provisions of the articles in a particular case held sufficient to exempt private property of the stockholders in a mutual insurance company from liability for debts of the corporation, although there was a provision by which such property should be liable for money advanced to creating a guaranty fund. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

Corporations may be legally organized whose articles do not exempt private property of its stockholders from liability for corporate debts. Berkson v. Anderson, 115-674.

Par. 6. Powers: The powers given by statute to corporations are not required to be enumerated in its articles, and an omission to claim any such powers in the articles would not leave the corporation without such powers. Sioux City Terminal R. & W. Co. v. Trust Co., 82 Fed., 124.

When the state courts have determined the extent of the powers and liabilities of corporations created under the state law, their decision is conclusive in the federal courts in cases involving no question of general or commercial law and no federal question. Ibid.

A corporation is itself a franchise, and the different powers which may be exercised by the corporation are also franchises. Thus, the right given to a corporation to supply a city with water and of occupying the streets for that purpose, may be spoken of as a franchise. But such a privilege is not in the strict sense of the word a corporate franchise. Cedar Rapids Water Co. v. Cedar Rapids, 118-234.

One who becomes shareholder in a corporation thereby assents to the transaction of business expressly or impliedly authorized by its charter. Traer v. Lucas Prospecting Co., 124-107.

The corporation does not necessarily have all the powers which by statute are within the scope of corporate powers, but only such powers within the statutory scope as are given by the articles of incorporation. Ibid.

While as a general rule a corporation may not sell any part or all of its property for other than a cash consideration unless authorized by its charter, yet where the company was authorized by its articles to purchase, sell and deal in corporate stocks of corporations authorized to conduct mining operations, but had not power to carry on business of mining, the power to exchange its property or sell it for stock in a corporation which should engage in the business of mining was clearly implied. Ibid.

A trading corporation unless prohibited by its charter may buy and sell the stock of another corporation. Ibid.

The articles contain the terms of agreement between the company and its stockholders and are to be construed in accordance with the general laws relating to charter grants and legislative power. By accepting stock in the corporation, the stockholder assents to the terms and conditions found in the articles. Dempster Mfg. Co. v. Downs, 126-80.

A corporation may hold real or personal property in trust for any purpose that is not foreign to the business for which it was created, and a court of equity will enforce such trust. State v. Higby Co., 130-69.

Par. 7. By-laws. By-laws may be binding on a corporation, although informally adopted, if recognized and acted upon by it. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

A corporation is presumed to be clothed with the usual powers necessary and proper to enable it as such to carry out the purposes of its existence. Home Ins. Co. v. Northwestern Packet Co., 32-223.

Therefore held, that an insurance company had authority to acquire, by assignment, the claims of a shipper of goods insured by it against the common carrier in whose hands they were destroyed. Ibid.

Corporations are invested with such powers only as are expressly conferred upon them and such other powers as are necessary to carry out those powers expressly granted. Teachout v. Des Moines Broad Gauge St. R. Co., 75-722.

For the purpose of effecting the objects of a corporation its powers are as broad and comprehensive as those of an individual, unless the exercise of the asserted power is expressly prohibited. Thompson v. Lambert, 44-239.

Where an agricultural society was organized for the proper objects of such a corporation, the power to borrow money and execute notes and mortgages not being expressly assumed or prohibited, held, that it had by implication authority to exercise such powers as to indebtedness created for the necessary and proper purposes of carrying out the objects of the corporation. Ibid.

The simple act of going surety for another is out of the line of the prosecution of any business. Lucas v. White Line Transfer Co., 70-541.

For a proper purpose a corporation has power to borrow money by executing notes and mortgages. Thompson v. Lambert, 44-239.

The power to mortgage the property of the corporation is incident to the ordinary powers of such corporation. Dunham v. Isett, 15-284.

And where the power to borrow money may necessarily be implied, it may be exercised by issuance of negotiable bonds. Des Moines Gas Co. v. West, 50-16.

Under a charter by which a corporation had authority to purchase, etc., "any real estate or other property," etc., held, that it was not beyond its power to purchase its own stock. Iowa Lumber Co. v. Foster, 49-25.

A corporation having the general powers provided for in this section has the right to deal in, acquire and possess shares of stock in another corporation. Calumet Paper Co. v. Stotts Investment Co., 64 N. W., 782.

Where the articles of incorporation of a college did not expressly give it power to raise and control funds by taking endowment notes, held, by a divided court, that it had the power to accept and enforce payment of such notes. Simpson Centenary College v. Bryan, 50-293.

Unless restrained by statute, a corporation may sell or dispose of its property, and one corporation may purchase property from another corporation, both possessing in this respect the same power as individuals. It will not, therefore, constitute fraud upon creditors that the property of the corporation is conveyed by it to another corporation in which its stockholders own stock. Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72-666.

A stockholder in a corporation may maintain an action to restrain the corporation from acts in excess of its corporate power. Teachout v. Des Moines Broad Gauge St. R. Co., 75-722.

Corporations of all kinds may be bound by contracts not under seal. They may make a binding contract in writing not under seal, and may also be held liable under verbal contracts. So, also, they may ratify and adopt as their own a contract made by an officer out of the usual scope of his duties. Merrick v. Burlington, etc., Plank Road Co., 11-74.

The recital as to the making of a contract, not entered on the record at the time it was originally written, by the secretary, but at a subsequent meeting directed to be entered on the record, will not be receivable as against the other party to such contract. Colfax Hotel Co. v. Lyon, 69-683.

Where a party with the knowledge and consent of the directors of a corporation borrowed money on his individual note for the use of the corporation, which money was used by it in paying its debts, held, that the corporation was bound to repay to such party the money so borrowed by him. Humphrey v. Patrons, etc., Assn., 50-607.

Corporations may ratify contracts made without their authority and thus become bound thereby like natural persons. Thus an acceptance of payment for services rendered under a contract and in accordance with its terms may amount to a ratification of such contract. Athearn v. Independent Dist., 33-105.

Where a corporation became the successor to an individual in the manufacture and sale of buggies, held, that it had authority to accept from the individual whom it succeeded an order accepted by him upon particular terms. Cook Mfg. Co. v. Randall, 62-244.

Held, that a corporation organized for the manufacture and sale of musical instruments, and not having the power to engage in the business of loaning money, might still take from its agent, in payment of an indebtedness due from him, the note of a third party belonging to him. Western Organ Co. v. Reddish, 51-55.

Corporations can make contracts and transfer property, possessing the same powers in such respects as private individuals. A corporation has therefore the right to prefer one creditor to another, and the fact that the preference is exercised in favor of a shareholder or director is immaterial, although the shareholder or director may have voted for the proposition, and the security given was to secure an indebtedness to himself. Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72-666.

Power as to real property: The power of a railway corporation to whom public lands are granted to hold such lands is a question between the corporation and the government, and cannot be raised as against the corporation by a third party in an action by the company for possession of the lands so granted. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Lewis, 53-101.

The grant by the law under which a corporation is organized, of the power to make contracts gives it the power to make a sale of its real property and convey the same. Buell v. Buckingham, 16-284.

A limitation upon the power to sell operates also as a limitation on the power to convey. Middleton Savings Bank v. Dubuque, 15-394.

Exemption of property of members from liability for debts: The corporation may exempt the private property of its members from liability for corporate debts. Spense v. Iowa Valley Const. Co., 36-407; Larson v. Dayton, 52-597.

The only case in which the private property of members becomes liable for corporate debts is that specified in the statute relating to failure to take proper steps in organizing (§ 1616). First Nat. Bank v. Davies, 43-424, 436.

A stockholder can be made liable to the creditors of a corporation only to the extent of his unpaid subscription to the capital stock. Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72-666.

Where a statute exempted from liability for corporate debts stockholders in corporations organized under the general incorporation laws, held, that in order that the stockholders of the corporation should be exempt from liability it must appear that the corporation was organized under such general statute. Kaiser v. Lawrence Savings Bank, 56-104.

A provision in articles of a mutual insurance company relieving members from liability for corporation debts is not applicable with reference to their liability for assessments, the assessments in such case not being a debt of the corporation but a debt of the individual members. Montgomery County Farmers' Mut. Ins. Co. v. Milner, 90-685.

Where a corporation is stockholder in another corporation, the stockholders of the former are not thereby individually stockholders in the latter, and cannot be held liable as such. Langan v. Iowa & M. Const. Co., 49-317.

The power to sue and be sued: A corporation must sue and be sued in its corporate name. Chicago, D. & M. R. Co. v. Keisel, 43-39.

Corporate name: A variance from the true style of a corporation will not have the effect to defeat its contract if it appears that the corporation was intended to be bound by and described in the instrument. Athearn v. Independent Dist., 33-105.

Where a note was made payable to the order of "The Equitable Life Insurance Company of Iowa at its office," and was dated at the "Office of the Equitable Life Insurance Company, Des Moines, Iowa," held, that although the two names were not identical, yet it was reasonably apparent that they referred to the same corporation. Equitable L. Ins. Co. v. Gleason, 56-47.

Where the name of the corporation consists of a number of words, the omission, alteration or transposition of any of the words in the name used, if the words in the name used are synonymous with the true name of the corporation, is not a misnomer. Martin v. Central Iowa R. Co., 59-411.

The use of the word "railroad" instead of "railway" in naming a corporation in an indictment for embezzling the funds of such corporation, held not to be material. State v. Goode, 68-593.

A railroad company cannot, in a legal proceeding, be properly designated by the initial letters of the words constituting its name, even though it may be possible to show that it is popularly known by its initial letters. Accola v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 70-185.

Change of name: Where a note given in aid of a corporation operating a college provided that upon the payment of a proportion of the note a scholarship in the college should be issued, and afterward the corporate name of the institution was changed, held, that the new corporation succeeding to the rights of the old might sue upon such note, and the maker would be entitled to a scholarship therein according to the same terms. Trustees of Northwestern College v. Schwagler, 37-577.

The corporate name is that which is adopted in the articles of incorporation. If the name is changed it must be done by changing the articles, and the best evidence as to the contents of the articles is the articles themselves; therefore held, that parol evidence of a change of name was not sufficient. Chicago, D. & M. R. Co. v. Keisel, 43-39.

By-laws: One who has notice of a by-law, as for instance an officer of the corporation, is bound thereby. Des Moines Nat. Bank v. Warren County Bank, 66 N. W., 154.

Sec. 1610. Articles adopted and recorded—fees to state.

A failure to file the articles of incorporation in the office of the secretary of state does not, under § 1616, render the stockholders individually liable (the section being discussed in the opinions of a divided court). First Nat. Bank v. Davies, 43-424; followed in Eisfeld v. Kenworth, 50-389.

Where a corporation failed to record its articles of incorporation as required by statute, and the directors borrowed money in excess of the capital stock, giving their note for the same, which, when the company became insolvent, they paid, in an action by the directors against the other shareholders for an accounting and for contribution of their pro rata share of the debt paid by plaintiffs, held, that, as between themselves, their contractual relation was to be determined by what they had adopted as their agreement, and therefore, though the articles of incorporation were unrecorded, its provisions were binding upon them; and where one of the articles limited the amount of indebtedness to sixty-five per cent of the capital stock, the directors who violated this agreement were in no position to demand contribution from the shareholders. Heard v. Owen, 79-23.

One of the incorporators cannot rely by way of defense in an action against him for the assessment upon his stock, that the articles were not recorded in the office of the secretary of state. State Bank Building Co. v. Peirce, 92-668.

As to change of articles see § 1615 and notes.

It is not specifically required that the acknowledgment shall be in the same form as that required for conveyances of real property, and therefore, if the venue is given at the beginning of the certificate, and the officer taking the acknowledgment subscribes as "notary public," without reciting that he is a notary public in and for the county named, the acknowledgment is sufficient, it being presumed that the officer acts only within the scope of his authority. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

The object of requiring the filing and recording of articles of incorporation is to give them the same publicity as nearly as may be as statutory charters, and their provisions are binding on all who deal with the stock of the corporation. Dempster Mfg. Co. v. Downs, 126-80.

Sec. 1611. Limit of indebtedness.

It is doubtful whether an insurance company is required to recite the limit of indebtedness which it may incur by its policies of insurance. At any rate, if the amount of indebtedness is reasonably ascertainable the requirements of the statute have been complied with. Smith v. Sherman, 113-601.

A debt contracted in excess of the maximum limitation stated in the charter is not void, but is enforceable against it, corporation and parties holding under it, and gives rise only to a right of action on the part of the state because of the violation of statute, and perhaps also a liability on the officers of the corporation for the excessive debt so contracted. Miss City Terminal R. & W. Co. v. Trust Co., 173 U. S., 109; S. C. 82 Fed., 124.

A mortgage given by a debtor corporation on its own property is not intended to be governed by the last sentence of this section (embodying a proviso added to § 1061 of the Code of '73 by chap. 22 of 20 G. A.). This sentence applies to the class and not the condition. It singles out this particular kind of corporation, and it is not meant to point out such state of affairs which it was thought might exist with any corporation. Beach v. Wakefield, 107-567.

The corporation having received the full benefit of the consideration for the indebtedness contracted in excess of the limitation of its indebtedness, it cannot question the validity of indebtedness thus incurred. And it is immaterial that money borrowed in excess of the limitation of indebtedness is used for an ultra vires purpose. Traer v. Lucas Prospecting Co., 124-107.

The incurring of liabilities greater than herein provided does not render the stockholders individually liable. Langan v. Iowa & M. Const. Co., 49-317.

A private corporation is liable, at least to the extent of the consideration received, for indebtedness contracted in excess of the limit imposed by the articles of incorporation. In such case the corporation is estopped from setting up the limit. Humphrey v. Patrons' etc., Assn., 50-607.

The debt of a corporation beyond the limits of its indebtedness is not invalid even though held by the director of the corporation. The director in this respect occupies no different position from that of any other creditor, if the debt was contracted in good faith. Garrett v. Burlington Plow Co., 70-697; Warfield v. Marshall County Canning Co., 72-666.

The theory of this section seems to be that if bonds of the corporation are secured upon real estate worth at least twice the amount loaned thereon, they will be paid out of this security, and thus there will be left for the benefit of other creditors the security derived from the capital stock of the corporation. First Nat. Bank v. Sioux City Terminal R. & W. Co., 69 Fed., 441.

Failure to make in the articles a statement of the highest amount of indebtedness to which the corporation may be subjected is such a failure to comply with the requisites in relation to the organization of the company as to render the stockholders liable under § 1616. Heuer v. Carmichael, 82-288.

It is a sufficient compliance with the requirements of this section that the articles provide the limit of indebtedness, except as shall be determined by a majority of the stockholders at a meeting. Thornton v. Balcom, 85-198.

Sec. 1613. Notice published—what to contain.

As corporations may be legally organized in whose articles there is no limitation which exempts the individual property of its stockholders, the requirements that the notice make disclosure on this question is important, and where the publication is in an obscure newspaper, published at a place remote from that of the principal place remote from that of the principal son v. Anderson, 115-674.

The publication of notice in a newspaper published at a place remote from the principal place of business is not sufficient compliance with the statute. Clinton Novelty Iron Works v. Neiting, 111 N. W., 974.

It seems that acts of a corporation will not be valid as corporate acts unless publication of notice of the organization is made as required by law. Eisfeld v. Kenworth, 50-389.

A failure to publish the statutory notice of incorporation does not invalidate indebtedness created within the statutory limits, but only renders the stockholders individually liable. First Nat. Bank v. Sioux City Terminal R. & W. Co., 69 Fed., 441.

Failure to state in the published notice the highest amount of indebtedness for which the corporation may be rendered liable is such a failure to comply with the law in regard to publicity as to render the stockholders liable under the provisions of § 1616. Heuer v. Carmichael, 82-288.

Where a notice specified that the indebtedness of the corporation should not exceed a certain sum, while the articles provided that it should not exceed that sum except as authorized by a vote of the majority of the stockholders at a meeting, held, that such notice was sufficient. Thornton v. Balcom, 85-198.

A statement that the limit of the company's indebtedness shall be "two-thirds of the amount of the capital stock prescribed" is a sufficient statement of the highest amount of indebtedness to which the corporation is at any time to subject itself. Park v. Zwart, 92-37.

The publication of the articles themselves is a sufficient compliance with this section if the articles contain all the required statements. Ibid.

Where the articles of incorporation did not state the principal place of business, or the time of commencement of business, held, that the publication of such articles was not sufficient notice, and that there was such failure to comply with this section as to render the stockholders individually liable under § 1616. Clegg v. Grange Co., 61-121.

As to contracts in excess of the limit of indebtedness, see notes to § 1611.

Sec. 1614. May begin business.

Failure to file articles in the office of secretary of state within three months does not render the acts of the corporation void, nor deprive it of its franchises without proceedings being instituted for that purpose. First Nat. Bank v. Davies, 43-424.

A corporation may lawfully commence business on compliance with the terms of this section. Its authority to do so is not made dependent upon all of its stock being subscribed. Johnson v. Kessler, 76-411.

The rights of parties are not made dependent upon the publication of notice required upon the filing of the articles. If the publication is inserted in a newspaper within three months, it seems that it ought not to be held a failure to substantially comply with the statute, though the last publication is not made within that time. Thornton v. Balcom, 85-198.

Sec. 1615. Change of articles.

Where a renewal of the corporate franchise is authorized it may be effected by amendment of the articles as provided in this section. Lamb v. Dobson, 90 N. W., 607.

A change in the articles made in the manner therein provided, and properly recorded and published, is as binding upon stockholders who do not assent to those who do consent thereto. Burlington & M. R. R. Co. v. White, 5-409.

If a corporation procures an alteration to be made in its charter by which a new and different business is superadded to that originally contemplated, such of the stockholders as do not assent to the alteration will be absolved from liability on their subscriptions to the capital stock. Ibid.

But where a change in the charter merely related to the time of payment of installments of subscriptions to stock, held, that by the subscription under the charter the subscriber assented to the change afterward made in pursuance of such provisions. Ibid.

Where the corporation has assumed to make a contract authorized by its amended articles, and has received the consideration therefor, it cannot escape liability upon the ground that such amended articles had not been recorded. Humphrey v. Patron's, etc., Assn., 50-607.

Articles of incorporation of a company organized for pecuniary profit can be amended only by an instrument signed and acknowledged by the person or persons duly authorized so to do and recorded. Day v. Mill Owners' Mut. F. Ins. Co., 75-694.

A material or radical change in the objects of a corporation will release the subscriber of stock from liability thereon, but immaterial changes which cannot possibly prejudice such subscriber will not affect him. Union Ag'l, etc., Assn. v. Neill, 31-95.

An amendment to a charter not materially changing the original purposes of the corporation, held not sufficient to excuse stockholder from liability for stock subscribed. Peoria & R. I. R. Co. v. Preston, 35-115.

Amendments to the articles of incorporation of a college in accordance with provisions made therein for amendment, affecting the method in which trustees were to be appointed, but not the general purposes and objects of the corporation, held not sufficient to release the maker of a scholarship note from his liability thereon. Washington College v. Duke, 14-14.

Sec. 1616. Individual property liable.

Aside from statute, stockholders of a de facto corporation cannot be held liable as partners on account of irregularities, omissions or mistakes in incorporating or organizing the corporation. The statute does not create a contract liability. Therefore, those dealing with a corporation having actual notice of the articles, and after publication of the notice required by statute, cannot hold the stockholders individually liable because of irregularity in the organization and publication. Seaton v. Grimm, 110-145.

Stockholders who participated in the organization of the company and became responsible to the same extent as other stockholders for failure to have notice published, cannot hold such other stockholders liable individually on the ground that there was not a proper publication of notice. Ibid.

"Organization and publicity" should be construed "organization or publicity." Ibid.

A subscriber to stock may disaffirm his contract on account of defects in the organization of the company, where it has been represented to him that the organization was legal and complete, and is not bound to go to the records or other sources of information before relying upon such representation. Maine v. Midland Inv. Co., 132-272.

Whether one who buys stock in a defectively organized corporation incurs liability, in virtue of the statutory provision, for debts of the corporation incurred prior to the date of the purchase, is an open question in this state. Houts v. Sioux City Brass Works, 110 N. W., 166.

One who becomes a stockholder within the three months allowed for the publication of notice is liable for the debts incurred after he became a stockholder, if he has had knowledge of the facts connected with the organization of the corporation at the time he became a member or when the indebtedness was contracted. It is immaterial that he was not in any way responsible for the failure of the corporation to give proper notice of its organization. Clinton Novelty Iron Works v. Neiting, 111 N. W., 974.

Under this section, held, that a failure to file the articles did not alone render the stockholders individually liable. First Nat. Bank v. Davies, 43-424; Eisfeld v. Kenworth, 50-389; Stokes v. Findlay, 4-205.

Failure to state in the articles and in the published notice the highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which a corporation may be subjected will render the stockholders liable to a creditor under the provisions of this section. Heuer v. Carmichael, 82-288.

In the clause "in relation to organization and publicity," the word "and" should be construed as "or." A failure in either respect will render the stockholders individually liable. Eisfeld v. Kenworth, 50-389.

So held in case of a failure to publish any notice whatever. Ibid; Marshall v. Harris, 55-182.

Failure to publish the statutory notice renders stockholders individually liable, but does not invalidate indebtedness created. First Nat. Bank v. Sioux City Terminal R. & W. Co., 69 Fed., 441.

The statement of the articles duly published that the indebtedness of the corporation shall not exceed "two-thirds of the amount of capital stock prescribed" is a sufficient compliance with the provisions of § 1613 to relieve the stockholder from liability under the provisions of this section. Park v. Zwart, 92-37.

The fact that a creditor has sought relief against the corporation on his claim will not estop him from recovering against the stockholders under the provisions of this section. These provisions are not limited to cases where the corporation has not a legal existence as such. After recovering a judgment against the corporation the creditor may pursue his remedy as against the stockholders. Heuer v. Carmichael, 82-288.

A provision in the articles as to the indebtedness for which the corporation may be made liable excepting "by a majority vote of the stockholders present" at a meeting is a sufficient statement under § 1611, and will not render the stockholders liable under this section. Thornton v. Balcom, 85-198.

Failure to secure subscriptions for stock to the full amount authorized by the articles will not render the stockholders liable where there is no requirement in the articles that all the stock shall be subscribed before the company commences business, nor that any definite sum shall be subscribed. Ibid.

But such a condition is precedent to the right to commence business and incur debts, unless it is provided in the articles that the corporation may do so when a specified amount of stock is subscribed. The fact that the stock is not all subscribed does not constitute a failure to comply substantially with the requirements in relation to organization and publicity. Sweeney v. Talcott, 85-103.

Where the articles of incorporation did not state the principal place of business or the time of commencement of business, held, that the publication of such articles was not sufficient notice, and that there was such failure to comply with the requirements as to notice as to render the stockholders individually liable. Clegg v. Grange Co., 61-121.

Failure to comply with the statutory requirements as to posting a copy of the by-laws and a statement of the amount of capital stock subscribed, etc., will not render the stockholders liable. Langan v. Iowa & M. Const. Co., 49-317; McKellar v. Stout, 14-359.

A failure to properly keep the books, as required by statute, does not render the stockholders individually liable. If the books are fraudulently kept, those guilty of participation in the fraud may be held liable. Langan v. Iowa & M. Const. Co., 49-317.

Nor does the incurring of liabilities greater than allowed by statute render the stockholders individually liable. Ibid.

While there may be irregularities or omissions to comply with provisions merely directory, which would be sufficient to sustain an action brought to declare a forfeiture, but are insufficient to sustain an action to enforce individual liability of a stockholder, yet if the attempt to incorporate is under a general law, and there is a material non-compliance therewith, then there is such want of incorporation that exemption from individual liability is not secured. Kaiser v. Lawrence Savings Bank, 56-104.

In case of suit against individuals claiming exemption from liability on the ground of their having become a corporation under a general statute, a stricter measure of compliance with the statutory requirements must be shown than in case the plea of nul tiel corporation is set up in a suit between the corporation and the stockholder or other individual, on liability contracted. Ibid.

Where a contract is made with an unincorporated association, or a part of the members thereof, the other contracting party is bound thereby. Reding v. Anderson, 72-498.

Stockholders in railway companies are, by express provision, not liable beyond the amount of stock held by them in such companies. First Nat. Bank v. Davies, 43-424.

A construction company having power under its articles to construct and operate a railway is a railway corporation within the meaning of the statute. Ibid.; Langan v. Iowa & M. Const. Co., 49-317.

Sec. 1617. Dissolution—notice of.

The sale of the corporation business will not necessarily operate as a dissolution of the corporation, and if good ground for such sale exists it may be made by act of the majority of the stockholders and will not be restrained on a complaint of the minority. Price v. Holcomb, 89-123.

Sec. 1618. Duration—how renewed.

Where a corporation has re-incorporated with the same membership and for the purpose of carrying on the same business, and assuming the obligations of the old company, the new company is liable on the contracts of the old. Benesh v. Mill Owners' Mut. F. Ins. Co., 103-465.

The renewal of a corporation may be made by an amendment of its articles as provided in Code § 1615. Ibid.

Whether the provisions of this section as to renewal are applicable to such corporations as are described in § 1642, quaere. Byers v. McCartney, 62-339.

Where a corporation has re-incorporated with the same membership and for the purpose of carrying on the same business, and assuming the obligations of the old company, the new company is liable on the contracts of the old. Benesh v. Mill Owners' Mut. F. Ins. Co., 103-465.

A corporation which took proper steps for renewal and tendered to the secretary of state the fees required at the time, held not subject to the provisions of the amending statute requiring higher fees in cases of renewal. Lamb v. Dobson, 117-124.

The renewal of a corporation may be made by an amendment of its articles as provided in Code § 1615. Ibid.

Sec. 1619. Legislative control.

The provisions of this section do not authorize a city council to amend or repeal an ordinance granting a franchise in the streets of the city for a public purpose. Levis v. Newton, 75 Fed., 884.

While the power to regulate corporate franchises is here provided for yet it seems that such regulation must be reasonable or they will be invalid. Des Moines v. Des Moines Water Works Co., 64 N. W., 269.

A statute imposing upon a street railway company additional burdens in regard to paving its tracks is not unconstitutional. Sioux City St. R. Co. v. Sioux City, 78-742; S. C., 78-367; affirmed, 138 U. S., 98.

By express provision of the statute, building and loan associations are subject to legislative control. Wood v. Iowa Bldg. & Loan Assn., 126-464.

A franchise granted to a street railway company is subject to subsequent modification. Marshalltown Light, P. & R. Co. v. Marshalltown, 127-637.

Sec. 1620. Fraud—penalty for.

To render stockholders liable for fraud in deceiving the public as to the means or liabilities of the corporation, there must be something done with the fraudulent intention of deceiving. The intention to deceive is not sufficient. There must be some act fraudulently done. Miller v. Bradish, 69-278.

Fraud in such cases is not to be presumed. The fact that a person is a stockholder in an insolvent corporation does, not, of itself, render him liable. Spense v. Iowa Valley Coal Co., 36-407.

Where it is sought to recover from individual officers of a corporation the amount of a judgment against the corporation, under a claim that such officers have rendered themselves liable by fraud, proof of absence of intentional fraud and diversion of assets to their own use will relieve defendants from liability. This section applies only to officers or others guilty of intentional fraud. Hoffmann v. Dickey, 54-135.

And held, that in an action for damages under this section, the particular respects in which there was a failure to comply with the articles, etc., resulting in damage to plaintiff, or the particular act of deception, etc., must be specified. White v. Hosford, 37-566.

The rule that, when there is no principal who can be made legally responsible, the agent who attempts to act for and bind the principal will himself be personally chargeable, applied to the case of officers of a bank illegally organized. Allen v. Pegram, 16-163.

Where the directors of a mutual benefit association, without authority, merged the same into another association of the same character, it appearing that such directors had a reserve fund and also received money from the other company for such consolidation, held, that a certificate-holder in the original company could recover by way of damages from such directors the amount paid in on such certificate, but not the prospective value thereof. Grayson v. Willoughby, 78-83.

The fact that officers of an incorporation incur indebtedness in excess of the limit prescribed in the articles or published notice does not constitute such fraud as to render them liable to the persons giving such credit. The officers of the corporation are not agents or trustees of the creditors in such sense as to be answerable to them either for the management of the affairs of the company or the disposition of its property. Frost Mfg. Co. v. Foster, 76-535.

The fact that after credit is extended the officers mismanaged the corporate affairs so as to render it insolvent does not make them answerable to the creditors therefor. Ibid.

Sec. 1621. Diversion of funds.

It is only persons injured by the diversion of funds who are deemed to be defrauded thereby. One who is not a creditor at the time of the diversion is not injured thereby. Benge v. Eppard, 110-86.

As to one who is a creditor at the time of the diversion there is no liability if, notwithstanding the diversion, the corporation had sufficient property remaining to pay all debts. Ibid.

To render officers liable for diversion of funds or paying dividends so as to leave insufficient funds to meet liabilities, it must appear that the entire property of the corporation is not sufficient to pay its indebtedness. A dividend may lawfully be declared although the corporation does not have cash on hand sufficient to pay all its liabilities. Miller v. Bradish, 4-278.

The word "liability" as used in this section means existing indebtedness the payment of which can be enforced, and does not include the corporate liability for payment of capital stock, such liability being remote and contingent. The amount of the capital stock is therefore not to be included in determining whether the liabilities of the corporation exceed its funds so as to render the declaration of a dividend illegal. Ibid.

If the corporation has sufficient assets to pay all its debts at the time a dividend is paid, then the payment of such dividend cannot be held illegal, nor a diversion of the funds to objects other than those authorized. Ibid.

As mutual insurance company funds are raised and to be used for specific purposes it cannot by contract with a similar company agree to use its funds for the payment of losses in such other company even by arrangement by which it is to acquire the membership of such other company. Twiss v. Guaranty Life Assn., 87-733.

In the absence of express statutory authority courts of equity do not have jurisdiction to dissolve corporations or wind up their affairs and the statutory provisions in this state give no such express authority. Wallace v. Pierce-Wallace Pub. Co., 70 N. W., 216.

There are cases in which a receiver will be appointed for the property of the corporation, as for instance where the officers have been guilty of the misappropriation of the funds or a breach of trust in the discharge of official duties, but in general a receiver of a corporation will not be appointed while it is solvent and a going concern, merely on the ground of dissensions among the stockholders. Ibid.

Sec. 1624. By-laws posted.

The statutory requirements that the corporation shall keep posted a copy of its by-laws and a statement of the amount of capital stock subscribed and the amount of indebtedness, is primarily for the benefit of the public, to be enforced by mandamus at the suit of a party injured. Boardman v. Marshalltown Grocery Co., 105-445.

By-laws not posted as required by statute are not binding on a stranger without actual notice, but failure to post as required does not constitute a failure to adopt such by-laws. Fee v. National Masonic Acc. Assn., 110-271.

This provision is for the benefit of the public and it is the duty of the corporation to comply with it for the protection of persons who might be affected by the by-laws. Therefore, held, that a purchaser of corporate stock, having no notice of a by-law providing that the corporation should have a lien on the stock for any indebtedness due from the stockholder, was not bound by such provision in a by-law when not posted as required by this section, even though such transfer was not entered on the books of the company, and the certificate of stock recited that it was subject to the by-laws and articles of incorporation of the company. Des Moines Nat. Bank v. Warren County Bank, 66 N. W., 154.

Sec. 1625. Statement of stock and indebtedness.

A failure to comply with this, or with the preceding section, does not render the private property of stockholders liable. See notes to § 1616.

Sec. 1626. Transfer of shares.

A transfer of stock not made upon the books of the company as required by statute will not be effectual as against an attachment of such stock for debts of the person who appears from the books to be the owner. Knowledge on the part of the attaching creditor or the officer of the transfer of the stock will not defeat the lien of the attachment. Ottumwa Screen Co. v. Stodghill, 103-437; Perkins v. Lyons, 111-192.

A stipulation for an assignment of shares of stock, actually in the custody of the transferee, implies an obligation to have a formal and effectual transfer thereof made on the books of the corporation. First Nat. Bank v. Park, 117-552.

The holder of stock as collateral has authority to have proper entry of transfer of such stock made upon the company's books. Ibid.

A person who is entitled to have shares of stock issued to him, or to have stock owned by him transferred on the books of the company, may maintain an action of mandamus to compel the proper issuance or transfer. Hair v. Burnell, 160 Fed., 280.

So long as the stock stands on the books in the name of the judgment debtor it can be levied on and sold, although the creditor has actual notice of a transfer thereof by the debtor. Ibid.

One who has purchased stock which is subject to an assessment to the corporation, is not liable for the payment of such assessment until the stock has been transferred to him, and any person who has without right paid for such stock and had it transferred to himself on the books of the company, and has made payment of such assessment, has no claim on the stock except for the repayment of the assessment. Loetscher v. Dillon, 119-202.

The transferee of shares of stock takes subject to any lien thereon created by the articles in favor of the corporation as against a prior holder and such lien attaches also to dividends declared during its existence. Dempster Mfg. Co., 126-80.

These provisions relate to corporations organized under the laws of the state and doing business in the state, and the books referred to are required to be kept within the state where they can be inspected. Perkins v. Lyons, 111-192.

In a particular case held that a pencil notation on the stub of the stock book, made long prior to a levy on the stock, although not dated, was sufficient to constitute a transfer. Ibid.

The provisions of this section relating to transfer of stock as collateral security held not to be retroactive. Ibid.

A private individual cannot require that the books of the company be at all times kept open for public inspection. His right to inspect, if any, is personal. Neither can he have an order with reference to future inspection. Boardman v. Marshalltown Grocery Co., 105-445.

The provision of statute as to the transfer of shares is intended as a protection to the company, and only applies where the sale or transfer in some way conflicts with the interests of the corporation. Moore v. Walker, 46-164.

The transfer may between the parties be valid without it. No statute gives to the bank a lien upon its stock for liability of the stockholder and if such a provision is made by the by-laws it will be valid only where the by-laws are posted, as is required by § 1624. Des Moines Nat. Bank v. Warren County Bank, 66 N. W., 154.

A transfer of stock is not valid as against the levy of an execution until it is regularly entered upon the books of the company. Moore v. Marshalltown Opera House Co., 81-45.

But in a particular case, held, that the transfer was sufficient to preclude an execution creditor from afterwards acquiring rights against the assignee, such transfer having been made before the written notice of the levy was served on the officers of the company. Ibid.

A provision of the by-laws of a corporation that no transfer of stock shall be valid unless approved by the board of directors, may be enforced to protect the rights of the corporation, but cannot be used to defeat the rights of others and operate as a restraint upon the disposition of the stock. The transferee may hold the stock and enforce a transfer thereof in proper form in the absence of any right or lien of the company to or upon such stock. Farmers', etc., Bank v. Wasson, 48-336.

In the absence of any contract and provisions of the charter and by-laws, a corporation has no implied lien upon the shares of a stockholder indebted to it to secure such indebtedness, and a transfer of stock by such stockholder to secure his individual debt will not be fraudulent as to the corporation in the event that he is indebted to it, and will be valid, although not assented to and approved by its directors as required by its by-laws. Ibid.

This section refers to the liability of the corporation for debts created prior to the transfer. It is not the liability of the stockholder under § 1631 which is intended. Therefore a stockholder is liable to corporate creditors after the corporate property is exhausted for corporate debts already incurred, to the amount remaining unpaid on his stock at the time of the transfer thereof. White v. Greene, 70 N. W., 182.

Bonds of the corporation not matured at the time of the transfer are nevertheless to be treated as liabilities of the corporation in determining the obligations of the stockholders. Ibid.

Where the corporation has not reserved any lien on stock for the indebtedness due from a stockholder it does not acquire priority over a pledgee of such stock by taking a subsequent assignment thereof, even though the first transfer by way of pledge is not entered on the transfer book. In such case the second assignment to the corporation would entitle it only to a surplus after satisfying the claim of the pledgee under the first assignment. Des Moines Loan & Trust Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 66 N. W., 914.

Although the by-laws may give the corporation a lien on stock for indebtedness due from the stockholder yet such lien may be waived by the acts of officers of the corporation in allowing a third person to acquire a lien on such stock without asserting the claims of the corporation. Ibid.

Shares in the capital stock of the corporation are the property of and under the control of the shareholder. Even though the by-laws of the association require that in order to constitute a valid transfer the same must be entered upon the stock book, yet this does not limit the absolute right of sale and alienation by the stockholder. Hershire v. First Nat. Bank, 35-272.

The written assignment and delivery of the certificates of stock, coupled with authority to transfer the same upon the books of the company, is sufficient to vest in the transferee the right to the stock. Courtright v. Deeds, 37-503.

The transfer of stock on the books of a corporation upon surrender of a previous certificate, without the issuance of a stock certificate in conformity therewith, is sufficient to bind the corporation and third persons to such transfer. First Nat. Bank v. Gifford, 47-575.

Although a transfer not entered on the books of the company is valid as between the parties thereto, it will not be valid as against an attaching creditor, who proceeds in the manner provided by § 3894, to attach the stock as the property of the person who appears on the books to be the owner thereof. If the attaching creditor or a purchaser had knowledge of the transfer it may be that a court of equity would protect the transferee's rights. 1st. Madison Lumber Co. v. Batavian Bank, 71-270.

Where a valid title to corporate stock has been acquired by attachment levied thereon and sale under execution, a transferee whose title does not appear on the books of the company cannot defeat it; but if it appears that the title asserted under the execution sale is not valid, the transfer may be good as between the parties thereto. Commercial Nat. Bank v. Farmers', etc., Nat. Bank, 82-192.

Where plaintiff agreed to purchase shares of stock in a corporation of a stockholder, and gave his promissory note for the same, and the certificate of stock was placed in the hands of a third party to be delivered to plaintiff when the note was paid, and where it appeared that the note had never been paid or the stock transferred, held, that while plaintiff had an interest in the stock, he never owned it, and was not liable to the corporation for unpaid assessments made on account of it. Connac v. Western White Bronze Co., 77-32.

A failure to properly keep the books, as here provided, does not render the stockholders individually liable. If the books are fraudulently kept those guilty of participation in the fraud may be held liable under § 1620. Langan v. L. & M. Const. Co., 49-317.

A stockholder is entitled to the inspection of the original record, and transfer books and the record of the financial condition of the company and to have his attorney and the clerk of such attorney assist him in making an examination of such books at reasonable times. Ellsworth v. Dorwart, 63 N. W., 588.

Sec. 1627. Amount paid in.

Failure to endorse on a certificate of stock the amount and manner of payment therefor will not render a contract in relation to such stock void, especially where it appears that full value in property was paid for the stock, and that such endorsement would not have altered the situation of the parties. French v. Northwestern Laundry, 132-81.

Sec. 1628. Non-user.

Where a railroad company did not commence to build its road for more than two years after its incorporation, and the stockholders did not pay up their subscriptions or take certificates of stock, but during the time the company expended money and made persistent and continuous efforts to procure additional means to construct the road, held, that these acts were such an exercise of its franchises as to prevent a forfeiture. Young v. Webster City & S. W. R. Co., 75-140.

Sec. 1629. Expiration.

The fact that the charter of the corporation has expired will not show that it cannot be the owner of property. After the expiration of the term of the charter the corporation continues to live for the purpose of discharging its obligations and disposing of its property. State v. Fogarty, 105-32.

The corporate existence may continue after the period limited in the charter for the purpose of winding up the corporate affairs. Rogers v. Western Mut. Life Assn., 123-722.

The statute contemplates the continuance of the liability of stockholders until the business of the corporation is wound up at least so far as valid indebtedness has been contracted while the corporation has a legal existence. The liability of stockholders does not become that of partners after the expiration of the period fixed by the charter. Elson v. Wright, 112 N. W., 105.

It is only corporations whose charters expire by limitation, or the voluntary act of the stockholders, which continue for the purpose of winding up their affairs. Corporations dissolved by action of court have no further legal existence, and cannot be represented by officers or agents. State v. Fidelity L. & T. Co., 113-439.

A court of equity may wind up the affairs of a corporation whose charter has expired, if internal dissensions in the corporation make it necessary. This section only authorizes continuance of the business by the corporation managers for the amicable settlement of its affairs. But a corporation whose charter has not expired will not be dissolved at the suit of a stockholder, and it is error to direct a sale of its property in such suit. Stewart v. Pierce, 116-733.

A corporation will be kept alive by statute for the purpose of discharging its contracts and disposing of its property. Muscatine Western R. Co. v. Horton, 38-33, 45.

The voluntary dissolution of a corporation does not take away its power to act for the purpose of winding up its affairs, nor affect the right of a creditor, in equity at least, to be released from the inequitable consequences of such dissolution. Muscatine Turnverein v. Funk, 18-469.

Sec. 1631. Liability of stockholders.

Although a certificate of stock recites that it is fully paid, yet if it expressly declares that it is subject to assessment for purposes named such an assessment will be valid and can be enforced against the holder of the stock. Western Imp. Co. v. Des Moines Nat. Bank, 103-455.

Such stock is not fully paid up stock and the holder thereof is individually liable under statutory provisions, even if the articles of incorporation provide otherwise. Ibid.

The corporation may maintain an action against the stockholder for an assessment lawfully made and it is not necessary that it shall appear that the corporation is insolvent. Ibid.

Where a call for an assessment on stock does not specify the time, place, or person to whom payment is to be made it will be presumed that the assessment is payable on demand at the place of business of the corporation and to the officer authorized to receive money due to it. Ibid.

The stockholder after the transfer of his stock remains liable for indebtedness of the corporation existing at the time of such transfer. White v. Green, 105-176; White v. Marquardt, 105-145.

One who in fact becomes a holder of stock incurs the liability of a stockholder for unpaid installments, although the transfer of the stock to him is not recorded in the books of the company; and upon a subsequent transfer of the stock by him effected by means of a transfer at his instance directly from the original holder to the last purchaser, he nevertheless remains liable in the same way that other holders of stock remain liable after transfer for liabilities of the corporation existing at the time of such transfer. White v. Marquardt, 105-145.

Indebtedness of the corporation not matured at the time of the transfer of stock is nevertheless a liability for which the stockholder remains liable to the extent of the unpaid installments of his stock. White v. Greene, 105-176.

Property may be accepted in exchange for stock, providing it is taken at its true value. The parties have the right in good faith to agree on the value of the property taken, but this should not be speculative or fictitious. State Trust Co. v. Turner, et al., 111-664.

But a creditor of the corporation, who has become such with knowledge, that stock, although issued as fully paid, has not in fact been paid for, cannot enforce his claim against the holders of such stock, nor can his assignee do so. Ibid.

In an action against a stockholder for an unpaid subscription, the burden is on the creditor seeking to enforce payment by the stockholder to prove that payment by the stockholder has not been made. Merrill v. Timbrell, 123-375.

In a proceeding by the auditor of state to wind up a bank and distribute its assets among the creditors, the receiver may have an order for the assessment of stockholders based on an estimate of the amount for which they will be liable under the statutory provision for double liability, and the stockholders may be compelled to pay such assessment before the assets of the bank are distributed, subject to the right to a return of any assets left undisposed of after the debts are all paid. State ex rel. v. Union Stock Yards State Bank, 103-549; and see Elson v. Wright, 112 N. W., 105.

Apportionment: In an action by a creditor of the corporation against a stockholder to compel payment of the balance due on stock, held, that under an allegation that the plaintiff was enforcing his claim unequally against different stockholders, and accepting settlements with others without crediting the payment thereof upon his claim, a receiver should be appointed and the prosecution of plaintiff's action be enjoined until the amounts due from all the stockholders could be ascertained and reported so that a pro rata apportionment might be made. Habitzel v. Latham, 35-550.

Stock issued at less than par: The officers of the corporation cannot issue to a creditor stock of the corporation to be accepted by him at less than its par value in payment of his claim, with the agreement that it is to be paid up stock, and the creditor thus accepting stock becomes liable as the holder of unpaid stock to the extent that the par value exceeds the debt for which it is taken. Jackson v. Traer, 64-469.

A creditor thus accepting stock becomes a stockholder although he has not subscribed for stock. A subscription for stock is only necessary to render a person a stockholder, where the stock is not delinquent. Ibid.

The fact that the stock was, at the time of its issuance and acceptance, worthless, would not relieve a stockholder, accepting it, from liability. Ibid.

A corporation may dispose of its stock to a creditor for less than its par value in full payment of his debt without any liability on his part to other creditors for the excess of the par value above the amount of his debt. (Disapproving Jackson v. Traer, 64-469); Clark v. Bever, 139 U. S., 96; S. C., 31 Fed., 670.

The officers of a corporation cannot, without express authority, sell the stock of the corporation at a less rate than its par value as fixed by the charter. Oliphant v. Woodburn Coal, etc., Co., 63-332.

A creditor who accepts stock issued to him by the officers of the corporation below par in payment of his debt holds the same as unpaid stock to the extent that its par value exceeds his claim. Jackson v. Traer, 64-469.

The public has a right to assume, where the stock of a company has all been issued as full-paid stock, that it has been paid for in full, either in money or in property at a fair value; but while the fact that full-paid stock has been issued upon a partial payment of its face might be ground for proceeding in the interest of the public to wind up the company, it is not a ground upon which the stockholder who has received paid-up stock can object to the validity of the contract for the purchase of such stock. Goff v. Hawkeye Pump, etc., Co., 62-691.

Unpaid installments: Where all the capital stock of a corporation outstanding was such as had been issued to stockholders who had conveyed to the corporation the patent-right for an article which the corporation was authorized to manufacture, and such patent-right had become worthless, held, that such stockholders could not claim that their stock was paid up, and were liable for the amount of their stock. Chisholm v. Forney, 65-333.

An action against a stockholder, even after the corporation has ceased to exist, need not be brought in equity, but may be brought at law. Tama Water Power Co. v. Hopkins, 79-653.

An action against a stockholder for an unpaid installment of stock is properly maintained at law and in such action the corporation, its creditors and other stockholders are not necessary parties. National Park Bank v. Peavey, 64 Fed., 912.

In an action by creditors of a bank located in South Dakota, brought in Iowa to charge defendants with a balance of unpaid stock of said bank, owned by them, it was held that as the statute of South Dakota fixed the liability of holders for unpaid stock, and did not provide a special remedy for enforcing such liability, such liability might be enforced in the courts of this state against persons over whom they have jurisdiction. Latimer v. Citizens State Bank, 71 N. W., 225.

Officers of the corporation cannot, by agreement with a stockholder, release him to the prejudice of creditors, from his obligation to pay his subscription, unless the transaction is characterized by the utmost fairness. Therefore held, that conveyances of real estate made to a corporation by directors and other stockholders in full payment of their stock, at a price largely in excess of its real value, did not release such stockholders from liability for the excess of their subscriptions over the real value of the property conveyed, even to creditors becoming such after the conveyance. Osgood v. King, 42-478.

Where the president of a corporation gave a mortgage to the corporation in payment of shares of stock to the amount of such mortgage, and the same was included in the statement of the company's assets, held, that he could not afterward surrender such stock and receive back the mortgage after insolvency of the company. Burnham v. Northwestern Ins. Co., 36-632.

Although the mortgage in such case provided that it was payable in the capital stock certificates of the company, yet, held, that as those doing business with the company had not an opportunity to know the terms of the mortgage, it could not be discharged as to the creditors of the company by surrender of the identical shares of stock which had been issued therefor. Ibid.

It is not necessary to show a subscription for stock in the corporation to render an individual liable as a stockholder. It is sufficient if stock has been actually issued to him, even though issued to be held as collateral security. Calumet Paper Co. v. Stotts Investment Co., 64 N. W., 782.

Under the national banking act making stockholders liable, in case of failure of the bank, in an amount equal to the amount of stock held by them, a holder of stock at the time of the dissolution of the bank becomes liable for the indebtedness thus arising upon such stock, although he holds the shares as collateral security, or as a trustee. Hale v. Walker, 31-344.

Subscription payable in property: The fact that a subscription for stock was to be paid in property instead of money does not relieve the subscriber from liability, if the property was not turned over as agreed. The company cannot, by any arrangement or action upon its part, release the subscriber from his liability. Singer v. Given, 61-93.

Set-off: The subscriber cannot, as between himself and the creditor, set up claims for services, or for use of property, for which the corporation is indebted to him. Ibid.

Release of subscriber: A railroad corporation may make, if acting in good faith, a valid and binding contract, releasing a stockholder from liability upon his subscription to the stock of the corporation, either with or without the consent of the creditors and stockholders. Gelpcke v. Blake, 19-263.

Enforcement of liability: An execution against the company can only be levied on the private property of a stockholder after a judgment has been obtained against him as provided in § 1632. Bayliss v. Swift, 40-648; and see Hampson v. Weare, 4-13; Bailey v. Dubuque Western R. Co., 13-97.

The primary object of these provisions is to protect creditors of the company. Where by agreement between the company and the stockholders shares of stock were sold at much less than their par value and upon conditions by which the stockholders were not to be liable to any additional amount, and one of such stockholders became a creditor of the company for services rendered, and assigned his claim to plaintiff, on which plaintiff got judgment against the company, held, that plaintiff was not entitled to enforce, as against another of such conditional stockholders, payment on his stock contrary to the conditions on which it was purchased. The liability of the plaintiff's assignor on the stock held by him being as great as that of any other stockholder, his assignee should not be allowed to compel payment of the entire liability from the holders of stock. Callanan v. Windsor, 78-193.

Where there is a failure to comply with the requirements of the statute with reference to organization and publicity, such as to render the stockholder individually liable, he becomes primarily liable, and may be sued in the first instance. His relation to the creditor is not different from what it would have been if no attempt had been made at incorporation. Marshall v. Harris, 55-182.

Where stock is issued to a promoter and organizer for property which is taken at a gross overvaluation the transaction is fraudulent against creditors of the corporation if it be insolvent, and the stockholder who receives such stock with knowledge of the consideration paid for it will be liable to such creditors as to the stock he holds for the difference between its par value and the amount actually paid to the corporation for it, and this rule is applicable to those who acquire stock with knowledge of the facts as well as to the original stockholders. Wishard v. Hansen, 68 N. W., 691.

In a particular case, held, that statements on the back of the stock certificate showing that the stock was still subject to assessments although it purported to be fully made up, were sufficient to put the holder on inquiry. Ibid.

In a particular case, held, that although it appeared that stock was issued as fully paid up to a stockholder for property transferred to the corporation, nevertheless as a matter of fact the value of the property was understood to be only one-third of the par value of the stock issued, and that therefore the stockholder was liable to creditors of the corporation for the unpaid balance on his stock. Boulton Carbon Co. v. Mills, 78-460.

Where the stockholder has become a creditor of the corporation he cannot set off as against claims of other creditors for the unpaid balance due on his stock the amount of indebtedness of the corporation to him. Ibid.

When property is received by the corporation in payment of stock at an excessive valuation it is to be considered as constituting payment only to the extent of its real value and the owners of such stock are liable to creditors for the difference between the actual value of the property and the face value of the stock. Stout v. Hubbell, 104-499.

It is immaterial that the articles of incorporation show that certain shares of stock have been issued as fully paid up in exchange for property. Creditors have a right to presume in such case that the property received is of the actual value of the face of the stock, and if it is of less value the holder of such stock is liable to the creditors for the difference. Ibid.

Sec. 1632. Corporate property exhausted.

The fact of demand and refusal may be shown by the official return upon the execution. Such return, as between the corporation and the creditor, must be regarded as conclusive. Evidence may be introduced to show that no such return was made, but it is not competent to dispute it by showing that no demand was made as therein stated. Singer v. Given, 61-93.

Where the corporation is notoriously insolvent, and its assets have been seized upon legal process, and it had ceased to do business, creditors are not required to exhaust their remedy against it before pursuing their remedy against the stockholders. Latimer v. Citizens' State Bank, 71 N. W., 225.

An execution against the company can only be levied on the private property of a stockholder after a judgment has been obtained against him as provided by statute. Bayliss v. Swift, 40-648; and see Hampson v. Weare, 4-13; Bailey v. Dubuque Western R. Co., 13-97.

The action against the stockholder, here contemplated, is an ordinary action, followed by an ordinary judgment; after which an execution against the corporation may, to the extent of such judgment, be levied upon the private property of the stockholder, as provided in § 1631. Bayliss v. Swift, 40-648.

An action against the stockholder to enforce in behalf of a creditor his liabilities for unpaid installments of stock is properly brought by ordinary proceedings. Calumet Paper Co. v. Stotts Investment Co., 64 N. W., 782.

Where there had been a defective organization and an indebtedness incurred and subsequently a regular organization of the corporation, held, that judgment against the corporation was proper and was binding upon the stockholders. Ibid.

This section contemplates the rendition of a judgment against the stockholder, and not merely the awarding of an execution against him. Singer v. Given, 61-93.

A prior statute upon the same subject considered. Donworth v. Coolbaugh, 5-300.

To charge a stockholder it must appear that there was a valid claim against the corporation. Corse v. Sanford, 14-235.

Sec. 1633. Indemnity—contribution.

A stockholder who has been compelled to pay more than his just proportion of unpaid subscriptions to the capital stock may enforce contribution from the other stockholders who have not paid their just proportion, and this rule is applicable to a case where a stockholder has voluntarily paid more than his just proportion, but liability in this respect may be determined by the contract between the parties, and if the stockholders pays creditors, knowing that the other stockholders have an agreement by which their stock is to be treated as fully paid up, he cannot recover against them for contribution. Esgen v. Smith, 113-25.

Sec. 1634. Franchise sold on execution.

It seems that this provision has reference to the franchise of a corporation obtained by the adoption of the articles of incorporation and not to a special franchise granted to a corporation, as for instance, a privilege of maintaining and operating waterworks in a city. A franchise of the latter character could be sold or transferred without statutory provision. Farmers Loan & Trust Co. v. Iowa Water Co., 78 Fed., 881.

Sec. 1636. Estoppel.

In an action brought by a corporation to protect its property from wrongful acts the defendant cannot set up want of legal organization as a defense. State Security Bank v. Hoskins, 130-339.

A party contracting with a corporation cannot deny its corporate existence. Howe Machine Co. v. Snow, 32-433; Courtright v. Deeds, 37-503, 511.

A person sued upon such contract cannot set up want of legal organization, etc. Washington College v. Duke, 14-14.

Among acts which would constitute acting as a corporation, such as by statute would prevent the corporation from denying its legal existence, would be the adoption and use of a corporate seal, the taking of subscriptions and the issue of certificates of stock; but the acts of persons as members of a religious society in holding business meetings, and acquiring property, receiving and paying out money, appointing agents to make settlements, etc., held not sufficient to constitute such "acting as a corporation"; also held, that the passage of by-laws is not an assumption of distinctive corporate powers; nor is the attempt to incorporate. Kirkpatrick v. United Presb. Church, 63-372.

Where the corporation has assumed to make a contract authorized by its amended articles, and has received the consideration therefor, it cannot escape liability upon the ground that such amended articles had not been recorded. Humphrey v. Patrons', etc., Assn., 50-607.

The fact that a member of the board of directors has been irregularly elected constitutes no defense in an action against the corporation for indebtedness created. Carrothers v. Newton Mineral Spring Co., 61-681.

When a corporation seeks to enforce the bequests in a will, duly admitted to probate, its claims cannot be resisted on the ground that it has not been legally organized. Such objection can be taken only by a proceeding by quo warranto. Quinn v. Shields, 62-129.

The estoppel provided for by this section certainly applies only to a body of men acting as a corporation for pecuniary profit. Whether the section can be applied to persons acting as a corporation other than for pecuniary profit, quaere. Kirkpatrick v. United Presb. Church, 63-372.

Sec. 1637. Foreign corporation—filing articles—process.

It is within the power of the state to prescribe the method by which corporations doing business within its jurisdiction may be brought into court and to designate the officer or agent of such corporation upon whom the process necessary to commence an action may be served. Green v. Equitable Mut. L. & End. Assn., 105-628.

The permit here required is not necessary to enable a foreign corporation to purchase property in this state and transport the same through the state. Ware Cattle Co. v. Anderson, 107-231.

The fact that statutory requirements as to foreign corporations have not been complied with by the corporation cannot be taken advantage of by one who has received the benefits of a contract with such corporation. Spinney v. Miller, 114-210.

The exception as to the doing business in the state by foreign corporations covers the transaction of receiving and accepting a note and mortgage for a valid consideration when such transaction is independent of and not connected with any form of business which the company is prohibited from transacting without a permit. Prudential Ins. Co. v. Cushman, 130-378.

A mortgagor who has received and retained the benefits of the transaction in which the mortgage is given cannot be heard to assert its invalidity on the ground that the mortgagee is a foreign corporation which has failed to comply with the statutes prescribing the terms upon which such corporations may do business in the state, the state alone being entitled to take advantage of the failure of the corporation to comply with the statute. Ibid.

It is no defense to a contract entered into by a foreign corporation that when the contract was made it did not have a permit to do business in the state. Iowa Lillooet Gold Mining Co. v. United States F. & G. Co., 146 Fed., 437.

In a direct action by the state to oust a foreign corporation from doing business therein without a permit, a judgment of ouster will not be awarded if the corporation complies with the law within a reasonable time. Ibid.

Sec. 1639. Penalty.

Where an Iowa corporation and a Nebraska corporation were organized to operate a joint enterprise and the Iowa corporation transferred its interest in the enterprise to the Nebraska corporation, which continued to operate the business in Nebraska and Iowa, held, that the Nebraska corporation was guilty of a violation of this statute in failing to procure a license under which to carry on the enterprise in Iowa, but that in view of the fact that it appeared not to have acted in bad faith it should have a reasonable time in which to comply with the statute before being ousted of its privileges and franchises. State v. Omaha & C. B. R. & B. Co., 91-517.

The original statute containing a provision that the license should be forfeited on removal of a suit by the corporation to a federal court, held unconstitutional for the reason that it made the stipulation not to remove cases to the federal courts a condition for obtaining the permit to do business. Barron v. Burnside, 121 U. S., 186.

Sec. 1640. Dissolution—receiver.

From the time of entry of dissolution by the court in a proper case the corporation is dead, and cannot be represented by officers or agents. Therefore held that where the decree contained an order of dissolution, the corporation, without appealing from that portion of the decree could not ask relief with reference to other orders in the same decree. State v. Fidelity L. & T. Co., 113-439.

CHAPTER 2.

OF CORPORATIONS NOT FOR PECUNIARY PROFIT.

Sec. 1642. Organization—purpose—name.

The secular acts of religious corporations are to be governed by the same principles of law as those applied to civil corporations. Moore v. First, etc., Methodist Church, 117-33.

The law presumes that meetings of trustees of a religious corporation are regular and upon proper notice and that contracts made by them and under which they have accepted benefits are binding. Ibid.

Corporations for religious purposes have no stock, and being without authority to levy assessments upon or enforce contributions from their members, the membership of an insolvent religious corporation may organize as a new corporation without becoming liable for the debts of the old in the absence of fraud and if no property of the old corporation is taken by the new. Allen v. North Des Moines M. E. Church, 127-96.

A religious society seeking to effectuate its ideals of religious life through the common ownership and management of the property of its members may acquire and hold real property and establish and conduct industrial enterprises so long as its property is owned and managed and its enterprises are conducted and extended, simply to meet the needs of its members, and maintain them in a manner consistent with their religious faith, to which its total income and accumulation of property is devoted; and such a corporation will not be dissolved and its privileges forfeited on the ground that it has exceeded its corporate powers. State v. Amana Society 132-304.

The management of the property of such a corporation so that it shall yield a profit to be used in promoting its business is not prohibited, the power to acquire and make use of property being incidental to and in aid of the power conferred to accomplish the business appropriate to the execution of the purposes of the organization. Ibid.

A mutual insurance company or association is a corporation for pecuniary profit, but under the provisions of Code Supplement § 1333-d it seems that there may be county mutual associations which are not corporations for pecuniary profit; the tax thus imposed is not a property tax, but a business or license tax. Iowa Mut. Tornado Assn. v. Gilbertson, 129-658.

For the purpose of effecting the objects of such corporation it has power to borrow money by executing notes and mortgages. Thompson v. Lambert, 44-239.

An agricultural society has not, in the absence of express authority in its articles, any power to employ persons to convey people to the fair held by such society, and is not liable for negligence of persons thus employed. Bathe v. Decatur County Agl. Soc., 73-11.

The provisions of § 3270 which limit the power of associations or corporations not for pecuniary profit to take by will more than one-fourth of the estate of a person leaving a wife, child or parent surviving, are applicable to voluntary associations of that kind whether incorporated or not. Byers v. McCartney, 62-339.

Whether the provisions of § 1618, as to renewal of corporations, are applicable to corporations such as herein specified, quaere. Ibid.

A corporation organized not for pecuniary profit such as a public library association may be for the public welfare and charitable, and the purposes of its creation may be germane to the objects of a municipal corporation, so that the latter may by devise take funds for the benefit of such association even though the municipal corporation could not appropriate public moneys to its support. Phillips v. Harrow, 61 N. W., 434.

Where a corporation is organized for the purpose of holding and disposing of the property of a religious society, and its officers are elected by the members of the church, the courts will not interfere by mandamus to restore to membership in the corporation a person expelled from the church organization for an alleged offense where there are no property rights involved. Sale v. First Regular Baptist Church, 62-26.

The civil courts will not revise the decisions of churches or religious associations upon ecclesiastical matters, but will interfere with the action of such associations when rights of property or civil rights are involved. Bird v. St. Mark's Church, 62-567.
